Husky Snite Family Back in Chicago

Rugged after a winter's vacation in Florida, the Snite family returns to Chicago . . . Fred B. Snite, iron lung prisoner for eight years; Teresa (right), and Katherine on her mother's lap. Young Snite caught the imagination and interest of the world a few years ago when he was married. Then, refusing to let the handicap of the iron lung stop him, he proceeded to raise a family . . . two husky girls.

Pope Warns All To Spare Rome

By PUGH MOORE

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in an address to the College of Cardinals, expressed the hope today that peace soon would appear on Rome's hills and over the whole world, but added that a demand for total victory might prolong the war.

In an Italian language broadcast, the Pontiff called on the victors to give hope and faith to the vanquished, and declared that "whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide in the eyes of the civilized world and in the eternal judgment of God."

The Pontiff said that many persons fear the theory of "full victory or complete destruction" and that this "operates with a bad influence as a stimulus prolonging the war and also on those who, following their internal impulse or for realistic considerations, would be inclined to a reasonable peace."

FUTURE SCOURGE

A fear of the enemy's determination "to destroy national life down to the roots suffocates all other arguments and brings about . . . a courage of desperation," he said.

"Those who feel this," the Pope continued, "advance as in a hypnotic sleep amid unspeakable sacrifices and compel all others to an extenuating and bloody struggle, the social, economic and spiritual consequences of which threaten to become the scourge of future times."

He said that Rome was receiving "more considerate treatment" from air raiders.

"The Eternal City, mother cell of civilization, and even the holy ground around the tomb of St. Peter have had to learn by experience how far the spirit inspiring the present-day methods of warfare—for a variety of reasons become even more ferocious—has departed from those abiding norms which were once hailed as inviolable laws," he declared.

HOPES TO SPARE ROME

"On the other hand, amidst so much suffering, we do not wish to overlook the fact that the threat of air raids on districts not beyond the outer parts of Rome has given way, in fact, to conduct that shows greater regard.

"We nourish the hope that this more equitable and moderate trend will prevail over the opposing considerations of

280,000 Japs Mass in China

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

The Japanese have concentrated 280,000 troops to pry the Chinese loose from the Hankow-Canton railroad and clear the way for new blows elsewhere in China, a Chungking military spokesman said today.

In manifest alarm over Japan's widespread offensives in north-central and south China, Maj.-Gen. C. C. Tseng said the enemy had embarked on a new strategy: "As the Allies apply greater pressure against Japan, Japan will exert greater pressure against China."

Greater pressure against Japan seemed imminent in the central Pacific, on the strength of a three-day aerial offensive which took U. S. fliers to the Kuriles, Wake, Guam and the Caroline Islands including Ponape and Truk.

Such far-reaching raids might be forerunners of a fleet-borne offensive in the central Pacific, the intent being to immobilize bases adjacent to the principal target. This strategy was followed in the Marshalls invasion.

A big battle was brewing along the Hankow-Canton line for possession of strategic Changsha, southeast China. The British radio broadcast a report Jap forces were 12 miles from the city, which has been cleared of non-combatants in preparation for battle. Thrice before the Chinese have successfully defended the town.

Tseng said 210,000 Japs were concentrated near Hankow, 200 miles north of Changsha, and 70,000 were poised at Canton at the south end of the railroad. Speaking of possible enemy drives, he said the Japs were massed on the Indo-China-Yunnan border, constructing a big airbase near the frontier. Such concentrations would pose a threat to Kunming, major U. S. airbase on the Burma road.

In Honan province fighting, Chinese recaptured Sunghsien, 45 miles south of Loyang. The Japs meantime struck west toward Tungkwan, gateway to China's northwest.

Maj.-Gen. Claire L. Chennault's headquarters confirmed a Jap statement U. S. planes had attacked Peiping, China's ancient capital, which is far northeast of present fighting.

American Mustangs swept over 600 miles of the Hankow-Peiping railroad Tuesday, destroying or damaging 22 locomotives.

In the Burma road battle Chinese and American troops scored gains in the drive to capture Myitkyina and Chinese troops occupied more villages in the drive west to join the Burma Allied forces.

American reinforcements poured into the Biak beachhead, gathering strength for a renewed assault to capture the three airdromes, all within striking distance of the Philippines.

Yanks Cut No. 6 Road Into Rome

By SID FEDER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 2 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have cut the Via Casilina, sealing off a main German escape route, and broken into Velletri—already left two miles behind by an American spearhead battling on the heights in sight of Rome.

Plunging across the Via Casilina—Highway Six—near Valmontone, the Allies slashed the main road for Nazis falling back from the main front to the southeast.

British forces pounding up the highway were nearing Ferentino, 18 miles from Valmontone, and French troops swung toward the highway from the west. A few lateral roads branch off from the Via Casilina to highways farther east.

(A London broadcast recorded by CBS in New York said the United Nations radio at Algiers "has just announced capture of Ferentino" by Canadian forces.)

U. S. infantrymen entered Velletri late yesterday after other Americans had virtually encircled this key German fortress, on the Appian Way, 18 miles from Rome. At noon today "fierce fighting is in progress" in the streets, headquarters announced.

Two miles northwest, Yankee troops fighting on Monte Artemisio, in view of Rome's historic buildings, were meeting "very obstinate opposition," a communique said.

This force had smaked beyond Velletri and seized dominating heights.

The smashing blows against the Nazi line guarding Rome also drove in another wedge by capture of Lariano on the highway to Valmontone, four miles northeast of Velletri.

Field Marshal Kesselring had flung his touted Hermann Goering armored division into the line near Valmontone in a bitter struggle to hold the Via Casilina.

Last Friday American troops won Artena, 2½ miles below Valmontone, but it took a week of fighting to reach the highway.

The British and French to the southeast squeezed tighter up the highway, and the French seized Ponte Di Morolo, west of Frosinone.

Along the coastal flank of the battle for Rome, naval guns again supported the British push.

Invasion Weather

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—A fresh southwest wind that increased in strength in the morning hours made for choppy seas in Dover Strait today, while overhead skies were cloudy. The weather was cool, with the 9 a. m. temperature 56.

Conditions were a little brighter, and visibility was better than yesterday. The cloud ceiling was higher and the barometer had risen slightly.

Reds Stop Nazi Thrusts Cold

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—Red army troops have smashed all German attempts to crack the Russian lines north of Iasi in Romania and have even counterattacked in some sectors, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, Moscow announced today.

A broadcast Soviet communique, telling of the fourth successive day of battle north of the Moldavian Province city, said 800 Nazi soldiers were killed and 17 tanks were knocked out.

Throwing in large forces of tanks and infantry, the Nazis made three separate thrusts, but were stopped by Soviet artillery, mortar and machinegun fire, the communique declared. Red tanks and infantry launched successful counterattacks on some sectors.

The Glutton!

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 2 (AP)—The French asserted today they had seized a Nazi battalion commander's order for the arrest of an artilleryman on charges that "of 11 portions of meat he ate 10,' thereby depriving his comrades of Army food to which they were entitled."

Record Air Blow Hits France

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, June 2 (AP)—The United States Air Force today made the heaviest single blow yet against the German West Wall installations on the French coast, hurling upwards of 750 Fortresses and Liberators and several hundred fighters against Pas-de-Calais.

Before dawn, Allied fliers struck over 2000 miles of airways from Scandinavia to France and from Hungary to Crete.

The Pas-de-Calais section, probably the most intensively bombed area in the world for its size, is 25 miles across the channel from England, where Gen. Eisenhower's invasion armies are massed.

The department extends 90 miles into the French interior and along 35 miles of the coast and contains such familiar points as Calais, World War I debarkation port of Boulogne, the resort Le Touquet and Cape Griz Nez, terminal for channel swims.

RAF heavy bombers concentrated on southwest French rail yards at Saumus, 150 miles from Paris, and the French coast last night.

Mediterranean forces attacked Hungarian yards 30 miles east of Budapest at Szolnok. Mosquitos bombed Denmark and the Germans reported an air attacks which damaged a convoy off the west Norwegian coast.

The silvery daylight bombers left converging trails of vapor over the 20-mile channel and shortly afterward a rumble of explosions echoed back to England. More formations went out around noon, including a big force of fighters which circled around Boulogne.

All morning the German radio reported the Reich was free of planes, but at noon the Luxembourg transmitter gave the warning that often precedes attacks.

The Vichy radio said 30 persons were killed in Wednesday night's attack on Saumur. The Vichy radio also said 42 persons were killed in an attack last night on the northwest coast of France.

There were no reports of German "invasion' sdop" planes over England last night.

Noxon, Jurors View His Home

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 2—To the beautiful $45,000 home he had built with such painstaking precision, Corporation Atty. John S. Noxon returned this morning for a second visit with a new jury of 12 men who were asked to study the spacious library overlooking the garden where the State contends the distinguished socialite electrocuted his infant son after specialists had pronounced the child a mongoloid idiot.

Every day of the nine months Noxon has been in jail, his attractive wife—Margaret Noxon—has brought him daily reports of their beautiful home and its gardens—reports he looked forward to with great eagerness.

Last March before the state's first try at sending him to the electric chair ended in a mistrial, Noxon was permitted to accompany the first jury to the death scene.

GARDENS IN BLOOM

The spacious grounds were covered with snow, but on this radiant day Noxon saw his cherished home at its most sparkling—the wide lawns are velvety and innumerable trees gleam against its white colonial exterior, while the gardens back are in full bloom.

As he arrived, walking slowly, with the help of his two canes, the prisoner first looked long and gravely at the gracious front doorway where he stood so often to receive the great of the town who are his friends; then he glanced briefly at the blue sky above his low-lying roof with its stone chimney and followed the 12 jurors who were tramping through the attractive rooms.

Considerable time was spent in viewing the library and the three-car garage where there is a work bench from which the state claims the tools involved in the fashioning of the home-made electric chair were taken.

On the trip to his home, which is just two miles from town, Noxon and the jurors were accompanied by several deputy sheriffs, Presiding Judge Abraham Pinanski, the three of prosecution counsel, Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti and his assistants, Valmore O. Cote and Alfred W. Bettigole; ex-Gov. Joseph B. Ely and Walter Donovan, defense counsel, and Capt. Camille Marcel, who was among the first to collect evidence.

POINTS IN EVIDENCE

Alberti pointed out various objects and architectural features in the house which later will be mentioned in testimony offered in evidence by the State, and Atty. Donovan called the jurors' attention to various other details which will be featured in refuting State evidence.

Mrs. Noxon did not come to court this morning when it met before the trip, but remained at home. She did not appear, however, when the jurors arrived, remaining in seclusion in one of the upper rooms.

Before the trip, Judge Pinanski, Alberti and Ely addressed the jurors, stressing the importance of their observation at the death scene and urging close attention to what the State and defense had to point out.

Wind Cools Torrid Heat

A comforting east wind blew cool on Boston today, fanning the mercury down into the 70's and ending a period of record-breaking warmth that brought temperatures of 96 and 88 degrees on successive days.

Worried victory gardeners and farmers hope for rain of the "cats and dogs" variety. But there was no promise from the weather bureau that rain of such proportions is in the offing.

With thousands trooping to the ponds and beaches, there was but a single drowning reported. William Amabile, 13, of Foy st., East Weymouth, failed to come up after diving from a boat in Whitman's pond. Firemen recovered the body.

Coast Guard Warns Of Bay Gun Practice

The Coast Guard cautioned mariners today that the Army would throw anti-aircraft fire over Massachusetts Bay in the vicinity of Hull, Lovell Island and Long Island every day this month, weather permitting.

The firing will cover a distance of 14,500 yards and vertical range of 3500 yards.

"All vessels are warned to stay in prescribed channels," the Coast Guard said, "and to obey the signals of patrol craft."

Woman Driver Defaults Again

Mrs. Mabel Webber, 48, Warren st., Needham, who allegedly whacked a Newton policeman over the head with a brief case and drove over his foot, in a traffic controversy, failed for the second time today to make a court appearance.

Judge Mayberry in Newton court issued a warrant for the motoring matron's arrest.

Police set off at once for her Needham home—but with little hope.

"We hear she has gone to Maine," one of them said.

Mrs. Webber was released in bond of $200 after her arrest May 18 by Motorcycle Officer Raymond Sullivan. He said he caught her after an eight-mile chase for speeding but she belabored him with the brief case and moved her car over his foot.

She is charged with refusing to stop on the signal of an officer, refusal to show her license, operating so as to endanger and speeding.

Seer Proves Heartless

By PAULINE WARREN

The favorite prediction of Boston fortune tellers at this time, when the invasion is imminent, is telling their women clients they will soon receive a $10,000 bequest from a death. Any woman, wearing a service pin, is swiftly questioned about a next-of-kin in the service, if the customer admits this relative is on some far battle-front, then—bingo!—with hardly a pause for breath—comes the seer's immediate forecast of a death in the family—a death inextricably linked with $10,000, the exact amount of a soldier's insurance.

In our five-weeks investigation my three colleagues—Alice Bissell and Helen Weller of the Boston American and Helen Farlow of the Daily Record—and I discovered innumerable instances of this blanket promise of a death connected with "ten thousand dollars."

Even the less vicious of the breed who sedulously avoid any mention of "seeing" maimed bodies of service men in crystals, cards, palms, tea leaves, or psychic waves, are absolutely heartless in this matter of telling mothers, wives, sweethearts and sisters of service men that they may soon expect the death of a loved one.

VOLUPTUOUS FIGURE

Yet these seers are far from sinister figures. Instead, these rather colorless examples of their calling are more like Madame—of Dorchester. She says she has been in the business for over 20 years. She's short, plump and rather gay in manner. Her hair is blondined and she has a voluptuous figure. She's quick and keen, but her shrewdness is well masked by her buxom appearance, which suggests that of a pleasant housewife about to pop a pie in the oven.

Her suburban living room is free of the usual clap-trap associated with fortune telling. It is well aired, cheery and well dusted.

Swift, efficient, she had me taking off my gloves before I was fully seated at the inevitable table with the two chairs facing each other. There was a magnifying glass on the table but she didn't use it—she just stared at my hand in an abstracted manner and kept touching it lightly. Thus, she said, she could feel whatever vibrations were around me through this slight physical contact.

Her monologue to me was re-

Widen Probe At Shipyard

Investigation into the alleged $500,000 fraud at the Bethlehem-Hingham shipyard developed today into a multi-sided probe by government agencies, which spelled double trouble for the 143 men arrested on charges of obtaining wages for work never performed.

Already suffering from loss of well-paying jobs, with the possibility of being blacklisted from all war industries and threatened with jail sentences, the men now may be deprived of their gasoline rations, lose occupational draft deferments and also be prosecuted for income tax evasion.

In addition, government agents may press for restitution of allegedly padded pay checks, in cases where investigation uncovers deposits in savings or checking accounts in banks.

REVIEW DRAFT STATUS

Local rationing boards already have begun re-calling the gasoline allowances of the accused men, while the reviewing of their draft status is in the hands of the local officials.

At the same time, more arrests are expected and a new probe of charges of illegal bonus payments to workers at the yard has been undertaken by a federal grand jury.

This followed disclosures that one shipyard worker banked $8000 in a year, although his pay was $4000; while another treated himself to a Florida vacation on sick leave.

While these flagrant cases were being revealed, over a score of the shipyard workers, who have already been arrested and arraigned in connection with the fraud, calmly attempted to go back to their old jobs, only to be barred from the property by guards.

The new probe is understood to deal only with charges of illegal bonus payments, whereas the roundup by FBI agents in the fraud cases concerned only a group of men engaged on piece work.

In the bonus investigation, it is alleged that some employes were credited with more work than they had actually performed in the bonus range.

NAMES ANNOUNCED

Col. Ralph M. Smith, state director of selective service, announced that names of all those arrested in the drive were being turned over to their local draft boards with orders to check on reasons for the workers' draft deferment. He said at present draft officials cannot touch the accused shipyard men because they are under jurisdiction of the federal courts.

New arrests in the case were those of Joseph Leoshott, Winter st., Watertown, married and father of two children; Ralph Robert Stiefel, Brook st., Brighton, married; Hyman Paris, 33, of Landor rd., Mattapan, father of two; Theodore Rubin, 27, of Kerwin st., Dorchester, father of one, and Alfred J. Smith, 35, of Broadway, South Boston, father of one.

Smith displayed an Army induction order calling him up for service next Monday.

Boys Wed Older Women in War

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—War-time statistics show hosts of young men marrying women older than they are, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company researchers said today.

More than three times as many boysn and young men under 20 were married in 1942 as in 1939, the statisticians reported, and during those four years "more than half of the boys marrying at the extremely young ages of 16 and 17 took brides who were their seniors."

"At age 18 the proportion was about one-third; and at age 19 it was still more than one quarter," they continued.

The statisticians also recorded a 65 per cent increase in marriages of men over 35 in 1942 as compared with 1939, and a 73 per cent increase in marriages of women over 35.

St. Louis Strikers Face 1-A Status as Public Hoofs It

By the Associated Press

St Louis was without transportation facilities today as striking street car operators and bus drivers remained away from their jobs, but some of the 3500 employes were threatened with reclassification into 1-A in the draft because of their refusal to work.

Eight St. Louis draft boards ordered immediate reclassification. The two-day strike has affected more than a half million residents.

St. Louisians resorted to hitchhiking, walking or bicycling, while bus service across the Mississippi river in East St. Louis (Ill.) also was halted by an unexpected strike of bus drivers. The two walkouts, however, were not connected.

Tampa, Fla., also was confronted with a transportation problem as about 175 street car workers stayed away from their jobs, putting all but nine of the 100 street cars out of service.

Other conditions along the country's labor front improved, with the apparent end of the strike of some 18,000 lumber and sawmill workers in the Pacific Northwest.

AFL union members of the woodworking industry, numbering approximately 26,000, returned to their jobs yesterday. However, there were hints of future walkouts if the National War Labor Board does not grant wage requests.

31 Allied Fliers Reported Slain

BARCELONA, Spain, June 2 (AP)—Reports from Andorra said today a group of 34 American and Allied fliers being guided to the Spanish frontier by patriots had been ambushed by German border guards and that only two Americans and one French aviator escaped alive into Spain.

The advices from the tiny state in the Pyrenees between France and Spain said the fliers had been sheltered by French families after being shot down. They were dressed in peasant clothes, given money and false French identity cards.

B. & M. Fire Kills Beverly Man

SALEM, June 2—Trapped beneath a loading platform as he was endeavoring to subdue the flames, Harold L. Rollins, 57, Blaine ave., Beverly, a freight handler, was suffocated today and the fire spread to assume general alarm proportions in the Boston & Maine Railroad yards.

Arthur Vaillancourt, 17, Horton st., Salem, another freight handler, suffered burns about the arms in fighting the fire. He was taken to Salem Hospital and later discharged.

Half a dozen other railroad employes had fled the 200-foot-long loading shed with Rollins when fire started under the platform, but Rollins ran to a nearby office building and obtained a fire extinguisher, returned to the platform and crawled underneath.

Firemen found his body lying near the extinguisher when they explored the shed and platform after the flames had flashed through the structure, to ignite a string of freight cars.

From there the fire spread toward the yard of the Salem Lumber Co. and the plant of the Wilkinson Counter Co., but lack of wind and the presence of Salem's entire fire-fighting forces finally held the flames to the railroad yards.

Meanwhile apparatus of the Peabody fire department was called in to cover at Salem stations.

According to Fire Chief Arthur L. Flynn, the fire started in a creosoted log underneath the loading platform.

The platform adjoins the freight shed, from which 14 cases of explosives, consigned to a military station, had been removed several hours earlier, in the normal course of forwarding freight.

According to railroad officials, there was no interruption of train traffic, because the fire was more than 50 yards distant from the main line tracks.

Thornell Boosts Score To 20½ Nazi Planes

By STANLEY CHIPMAN AND DONALD MacPHAIL

Old Daniel Boone was a mighty man with a gun but he would have doffed his coon-skin cap to Lieut. John F. Thornell, Jr., Bay State Buzzsaw of the Air.

Thornell, formerly an instructor at the Norfolk County Agricultural School, now has 20½ kills to his credit as a Mustang fighter pilot on the German front.

The 23-year-old 155-pounder is Massachusetts' leading ace, one of the nation's high scorers in air combat and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, as well as the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters.

KEEPS AT IT

Last Saturday, over Germany, he knocked two Nazi planes out of the air.

Sunday he blasted another to Hitler's hellcats into eternity. He was also credited with an assist in destroying a second.

Monday he took on two more. They never lived to tell Marshal Goering the details.

A week ago Monday the Buzzsaw bagged still another brace of Nazi planes.

Prior to that he knocked off three in one day.

WORTH HIS COST

The Army estimates it costs about $25,000 to take a willing rookie and make a combat pilot of him.

On that basis Thornhill is doing passing well for the taxpayer back home. The Germans make e-

From Massachusetts farmer to the "Bay State's Buzzsaw of the Air" is the saga of John F. "Jack" Thornell, Jr., who dropped a plow in Walpole to drop Nazi planes over Europe. This is the second in a series of articles depicting the metamorphosis of a plowman who went Hun-hunting.

LIEUT. JACK THORNELL IN HIS MUSTANG

where he served valiantly as a truck driver during maneuvers.

FIRST PLANE RUINED

Then the U. S. was plunged into war by Messrs. Hirohito, Hitler and Mussolini. The Army decided maybe it was being a bit captious in demanding college training of all the young men who wanted to dive and zoom against the enemy.

Thornell passed his aviation cadet examinations with impressive certainty. He went through all the pre-flight and flight sprouts designed to test his ability. Less than a year ago, he was shipped to England for final training and combat.

His first plane, a Thunderbolt, was shot so full of holes by more experienced German gunners, Thornell barely made it back to his English base. He crash-landed his riddled crate without injury to himself but it was beyond repair.

FARMER ALTAR BOY

The first plane was named Patty Anne, after his little niece. Patricia Anne McDavitt, who will not be three until August. The Mustang he is now flying is Patty Anne II, a deceptive mild tag for a death-dealing hornet.

Thornell used to be a cherubic, red-cheeked altar boy at St. Mary's Church, Walpole. His mother wrote him yesterday, "God bless you and keep you safe for a much prayed-for return."

He had written her and his dad, John Thornell:

"If you ever get word I'm missing, please keep your chins up. Just remember, I went doing something I've always liked."

Watch for the next chapter of this colorful story in tomorrow's Boston American.

Love Note to Heinz' Wife Read in Court

LOS ANGELES, June 2 (AP)—Photostatic copies of letters purportedly written by Walter von Neudegg, one-time Austrian count and ski instructor, to Mrs. Elizabeth Bald Heinz have been introduced as evidence in a court contest between the Baltimore socialite and Clifford S. Heinz, Jr., packing company heir, over custody of their child, 4-year-old Clifford III.

She identified the letters, one of which read:

"I am sincere and I was sincere about you. Some day I'll prove what I said, that you were the most wonderful, lovable thing that ever happened to me."

Mrs. Heinz

The letters reputedly were written between March and November, 1943.

Mrs. Heinz testified yesterday that one night last January she had dinner with von Neudegg in Spartanburg, S. C., and then went to a movie after which he said he had another engagement.

Returning to her hotel room, she said, she had just removed her coat when her husband and two men came in. They went immediately to the bathroom door, she testified, and called, "Open! Open!" whereupon Von Neudegg, nude, appeared.

"I said, 'What is the meaning of this?' and one of the men said they were looking for divorce evidence," Mrs. Heinz declared.

She denied her husband's charges she beat their child severely or used distatsteful language in its presence.

cellent planes. The Bay State Buzzsaw of the Air has made metal sawdust of two and a half million dollars worth of them.

Yet the Army once tut-tutted Thornell when, fresh from showing agriculture students how to plow a true furrow, he said he thought he would like to try the Air Forces.

The Army's idea, when he enlisted in 1940, was he would make a good field artillery man. After all, Thornell hadn't had two years of college as required of aviation cadet candidates at that time. So he was shipped to Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., and later to Ft. Bragg, N. C.,

WLB Order Held Not Reviewable

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled today orders of the War Labor Board are not reviewable by the courts.

The ruling was on an appeal brought by the employers' group of Motor Freight Carriers, Inc., an association of carriers and individuals who represent about 300 trucking companies engaged in transporting freight in Boston and throughout New England.

Three appellate court judges who heard the case, Miller, Edgerton and Arnold, held unanimously, "it is clear and undisputed that no statute authorizes review of the War Labor Board's order."

Somerville Girl Vanishes On Eve of High Graduation

The mysterious disappearance of Rita LoSciuto, 17, of Somerville, on the eve of her graduation from high school left her family distraught today and precipitated a police search extending to other cities.

Tonight, in cap and gown she had obtained for the occasion, Rita would have answered to her name at Somerville High School exercises and received her diploma.

Instead, neither her family nor her teachers, nor any school chum knows where she is.

She is the daughter of Frank LoSciuto, Main st., Somerville. Her step-mother, Catherine, said Rita left the house Monday morning, ostensibly for school. She had only $1 in her purse.

The missing girl wore a green tweed coat, black dress, red sandals and a brown kerchief on her head. She is five feet two, weighs 100 pounds, has dark brown hair and eyes. Her skin is fair.

On the theory she might have run away in an attempt to join the WACS or WAVES, Mrs. LoSciuto visited recruiting offices of the area but no trace of her stepdaughter was found.

Cuban Presidential Race Still Undecided

HAVANA, June 2 (AP)—The close contest for the Cuban presidency between Dr. Carlos Saladrigas, supporter of President Batista, and Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, veteran opposition leader, remained undecided today on the basis of incomplete returns from Havana Province and fragmentary reports from others.

The government coalition of four parties acknowledged Grau was leading in three provinces, but claimed margins in the other three with sufficient electoral strength to assure the election of the 42-year-old Saladrigas.

25 Felled in 2nd N. Y. Gas Leak

NEW YORK, June 2 (AP)—Ambulances, two emergency squads and radio cars were dispatched by police today to a Brooklyn pier where 20 to 25 men were reported overcome by carbon monoxide gas in the hold of a ship.

The latest gas accident occurred as approximately 195 persons remained in Brooklyn hospitals suffering from after affects of chlorine gas which affected an estimated 1000 persons yesterday.

No fatalities were reported from the greenish-yellow fumes which seeped from a 220-pound steel cylinder on a delivery truck and billowed out over a radius of half a dozen blocks in a busy downtown section.

More than 350 men, women and children were taken to seven hospitals. Scores of others were treated at makeshift first aid stations set up in stores, gasoline stations and nearby homes.

As the pungent fumes spread over the area, people toppled to the ground like flies, eyewitnesses said, while others were sent into violent spells of choking, coughing and vomiting.

The scene resembled pictures of battlefields, they said.

Leaders Seek Action on GI Bill

By FRANK REILLY
Record-American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2—Leaders in the fight to pass the "GI Bill of Rights" today pressed for action before summer adjournment, following a new delay caused by the continued absence of Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri..

Clark, head of the Senate group on a joint congressional conference committee, will not be back from his Missouri home until next week, and until that time no further action can be taken.

Only about three weks are left before a two-month adjournment, and fear has been expressed that unless the conference committee quits stalling there can be no passage until after the national convention.

While one school of thought held that Congress wouldn't dare adjourn before the invasion starts, another pointed out that to date members have shown little consideration for their duties in Washington when their political fences need fixing.

Observers pointed out that for some reason not immediately apparent, there has been deliberate stalling on passage of the veterans' rehabilitation measure, possibly with the idea of holding it up until just before election.

However, Reps. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts and Bernard J. Kearney of New York announced they were disgusted with the delay and promise to take steps shortly to end it. Cong Kearney, a hero of the last war, is said to be planning to make public the names of the stallers unless there is immediate action.

Pensions at 60 Proposed by Kelly

HAVERHILL, June 2—Former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly intends to present to the State Democratic convention a plan for pensions at the age of 60, according to his announcement here before the Massachusetts Society for Old Age Pensions.

The Democratic candidate for attorney general said the pension plan would be administered by a state pension bureau in a liberal and dignified manner. Presiding at the meeting, at which Kelly was guest speaker, was John W. Adams, president of the Haverhill branch of the society.

Shrimp Price Rise Approved by OPA

WASHINGTON, June 2 (INS)—The Office of Price Administration authorized price increases to packers which will result in higher retail costs for shrimp.

Divorce Ends 3 of 7 Chicago Marriages

By JACK SCHER
Special to the Boston American

CHICAGO, June 2—Three of every seven marriages in Cook County end up in the divorce courts!

This astounding picture of the divorce mill that grinds blithely along, spawning up broken homes and parentless children—a picture of gin brides and furlough marriages—was revealed today in a survey conducted by the Herald-American.

Busiest spots in the county building are the three divorce courts, with hallways jammed with women and children waiting for their cases to be called.

Divorce lawyers dash from one courtroom to another, many of them so busy they hardly are able to handle all their cases on a day's call.

The complete cynicism of the practice is epitomized by the way elevator operators, stopping at the 9th and 11th floors where the courts are located, call out:

"Separation department — divorces and annulments—husbands shed here!"

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, while hearing a divorce case today, castigated a divorced husband—salary, $6000 a year—who asked for a reduction in his alimony payments. The veteran jurist, who has heard more than 100,000 divorce suits, said:

"People make agreements easily enough in order to get a divorce, then they don't want to keep them. They figure they will sign anything just to get a divorce, and then come in a few months later and have the agreement changed."

But the question uppermost in the mind of religious leaders, social workers and jurists was voiced most poignantly by Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne, who asked for a transfer from divorce court:

"When children see their parents dissolve a marriage union in a few minutes in the courtroom, how will they as adults approach the institution of marriage?"

The Herald-American survey revealed the following figures:

In May, 1011 divorce suits were filed in superior court and 555 in circuit court for a total of 1566.

During the same month, 3504 marriage licenses were issued.

Ratio for last month, then, was 1566 divorces for 3504 marriages, or, at the rate of three persons divorced for every seven persons married!

Reno Record

RENO, Nev., June 2 (AP)—A new high in divorce actions for May was established in Washoe County court when 621 were filed last month.

This year 2482 couples have filed suits. This is an increase of 35 per cent over the first five months in 1943.

U. S. Moves to Halt Hub Vitamin Waste

WASHINGTON, June 2 (INS)—The government moved today to halt deliberate wastage of vitamins by East Coast fishermen who have so far allowed about 16 million pounds of fish livers to spoil as the result of a wage dispute.

The War Foods Administration is completing plans for a conference in Boston where WFA representatives will meet boat owners and fishermen in an attempt to safeguard the nation's vitamin supply.

The current vitamin supply is 25 per cent below government requirements. Cod liver oil, halibut liver oil and the valuable vitamin properties of haddock livers will become virtually unobtainable if the wage deadlock is not broken, it was said.

Vitamins are preserved by a specific member of a fishing crew delegated to separate fish livers.

The men responsible for the collection of the livers are demanding 75 per cent of the sales price of the livers as their pay. Boat owners contend they are entitled only to the 45 per cent cut which, they say, is the normal share of all fishermen in the proceeds of their catch.

Failure of the boat owners to accede to their demands has resulted in refusal of the disgruntled fishermen to save livers.

At the inception of the strike the War Foods Administration failed to realize the full impact of the potential vitamin shortage. Reports of the mounting figures on fish liver spoilage have forced action. The Boston conference will probably be held early next week.

Gene Tierney Still Growing Although She's Past 22

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 2 (AP)—The occasion, which was yesterday, was Gene Tierney's third wedding anniversary and likewise pretty close to the seven-month anniversary of her child, Daria, who is roughly seven months old.

Well, the child is developing very well, which is no more than natural, but what did seem surprising was how Miss Tierney is developing along with her.

Yes, sir, Miss Tierney has grown an inch and a half to five feet seven since the baby was born, which is more than usually unusual because Miss Tierney, while a long way from middle age (she's about 22), is at least a few weeks past the time when you'd expect a girl to stop growing.

"I have actually added one and a half inches to my height since coming back to work," declared Miss Tierney, who is currently looking pretty (very pretty) in a picture called "Laura."

Her husband, Lieut. Oleg Cassini, is on leave and spent their anniversary with her.

How Government Employes Burn Up Gasoline Is Told

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—People on government business still are traveling 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 miles a year, the Byrd economy committee reported to the Senate today, and burning 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 gallons of gas.

Progress toward cutting such travel, it added, is "neither substantial nor impressive."

The committee, a joint Senate-House group with Treasury and Budget Bureau representation, and headed by Senator Byrd (D.) of Virginia, continued:

"It is apparent the federal government is in the position of urging state governments and citizens to drastically cut down use of automobiles, the consumption of gasoline and tires, while its own record is not as good as it might be."

These are some of the figures given:

At the end of the last fiscal year, the government, exclusive of the War and Navy Departments, owned 19,161 passenger cars—1856 more than the previous year.

It cost $3,941,477, including 11,981,477 gallons of gasoline, to operate these cars 190,778,000 miles. Compared with the previous year, the cost was down $301,826, gallonage 1,812,117 and mileage 12,772,280.

More Federal Aid to Follow War, Sec. Perkins Predicts

The post-war will bring expanded, rather than decreased, government aid to the jobless, needy and infirm, and possibly even a revival of the public works program on a local scale, according to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Sec. Perkins outlined at great length the program of benefits and assistance proposed by the federal government for a great part of the postwar population, in an address to delegates to the International Ladies' Garment Workers convention at the Hotel Statler.

She said "there is no question of our ability to pay for an adequate system of Social Security at this time. Indeed, we can hardly envisage an equally propitious time to introduce postponed spending."

Because unemployment is likely to be "spotty rather than general in the transition period," she said the public works program would be on a local, rather than federal basis.

Among the changes she proposed were immediate retirement of those over 65 on old age benefits, government assistance for loans to business, government housing projects, government encouragement of purchasing of all consumer goods, and revival of the luxury, transportation and amusement industries.

Rayburn to Sing Song of Peace

By The Associated Press

With House Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) scheduled for a keynote address, a group of Democratic leaders sought at the Maryland convention today to name an 18-vote uninstructed delegation to give the state a hand in the selection of a Vice Presidential candidate at the party's national convention.

Rayburn, who has been mentioned as a second place choice if President Roosevelt seeks a fourth term, was called upon for a harmony talk in a meeting where all factions apparently wanted to prevent any outcropping of anti-Roosevelt sentiment.

The Maryland meeting vied for attention with a gathering of Indiana Republicans to complete that state's slate of 29 GOP delegates and to pick nominees for Governor and Senator.

In Washington, John B. Quinn, who managed Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen's successful campaign in the Nebraska preferential primary, complained that the silence of major presidential candidates was making the political race a hush-a-bye contest. His jibe, apparently aimed at the silence of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York paralleled similar proposals by Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio that other candidates tell where they stand on political issues.

Injured as Auto, Train Crash in Hub

A North End man was in critical condition at Boston City Hospital today following a crash between an automobile and a train in Commercial st. last night in which his two companions were also injured.

On the danger list, suffering from head injuries, was Louis Marcellini, 25, of Cooper st. Angelo Georges, 28, and James Luggiero, 23, both of Bradford st., South End, were also treated at the hospital.

Tobin Host to Heroes Of Pacific Battle

Mayor Tobin will be host to Greater Boston members of the famed Americal division who are home from the South Pacific after 28 months of service, at a banquet at the Hotel Statler Sunday night.

Members of the division living in Boston or nearby cities and towns are invited to attend the banquet and bring with them a parent, wife or friend as a guest.

ASSISTS AT TEA—Phyllis McLaughlin, president of the graduating class of Notre Dame Academy, Roxbury, will assist at the annual spring bridge and tea of the Notre Dame League to be held at the Academy tomorrow.

Bricker Frowns On World Police

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Gov. John Bricker of Ohio carried his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination into New Jersey, starting with a press conference at which he said he opposed the idea of an international police force to maintain world order after the war.

"If you have an international police force, you must have one that is larger than any of the parts it is to police," Bricker said, "and there will be only one place you could get such a force—from the Army and Navy of the United States."

"I am opposed to giving any international organization the control of our armed forces."

Lynn Sailor Killed

Seaman 2/c Donald F. Kelley, 18, of Shillington st., Lynn, has been killed in a training accident at the Naval Air Station at Patuxent River, Md., according to notification received by his mother, Mrs. Leo Kelley.

Hull Told Senate Wary of Terms

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull will go into negotiations with other countries with clear notification that at least a minority of the Senate opposes any one to commit the United States to participation in an international security organization before the terms of peace have been written.

This reservation was disclosed today by Sen. La Follette (Prog.) of Wisconsin to have been made to Hull when, as a member of the Senate liasion committee of eight, he approved the beginning of international discussions about the proposed organization.

La Follette told a reporter while he had no objection to informal talks Hull had said he would undertake with representatives of Great Britain, Russia, China and other United Nations, he had not committed himself to any security plan.

"I have made it clear to all concerned," LaFollette said, "the future consideration of any plan worked out as a result of these conversations, the establishment of an organization and the participation by the United States must depend upon the negotiation of just terms of peace."

De Gaulle Rift Widens Here

By KINGSBURY SMITH

LONDON, June 2 (INS)—Additional strain on American relations with Gen. De Gaulle was predicted today with disclosure the United States would not participate in forthcoming British talks with him.

The American government was pictured as assuming the position since the British invited De Gaulle to London it is their place to conduct the discussions.

These sources also reported the position of Gen. Eisenhower in regard to France is unchanged; Eisenhower retains his final supreme authority and will determine with whom he wishes to deal.

House Committee OK's Lend Lease

WASHINGTON, June 2 (INS)—The House appropriations committee endorsed the Lend-Lease and United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation programs today and voted full funds for their operation for the 12 months beginning July 1.

The committee approved $3,921,151,000 for Lend-Lease in 1945 and $450,000,000 for UNRRA. The measure authorized transfer of $350,000,000 from Lend-Lease appropriations to UNRRA.

The committee authorized lend-lease spending in 1945 of the unexpended balance of $3,738,323,000 anticipated on June 30, together with $88,299,000 of special funds, making a total of $7,188,893,000 available for lend-lease purposes during the 1945 fiscal year.

From lend-lease funds, the committee estimated $2,432,596,800 worth of goods and services would be extended to Russia, $4,043,422,772 to the British Empire, $176,578,543 to French North Africa and $149,611,589 to China.

DeValera Gets 76-62 Majority in Election

DUBLIN, June 2 (AP)—Final returns from Erie's general election last Tuesday disclosed today that Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's Fiannna Fail party had established a clear majority in the Dail (Parliament) by winning 76 of the 138 seats—or 14 more than all the other parties combined.

The remaining seats were distributed as follows:

Fine Gael, 30; Farmers, 11; Independents, 9; Labor, 8, and National Labor, 4.

9th Gold Star On Hearst Flag

The ninth Gold Star was added to the service flag of the Boston Record-American, Sunday Advertiser, today when the death in action of Lieut. Francis O'Brien, 24, former mailing and advertising department employe, was announced.

Notification of the young lieutenants's death was sent by the War Department to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien, of 71 Broadway, Arlington. No details were contained in the Army telegram.

Lieut. O'Brien, one of the most likeable workers in the Boston Hearst organization, entered the Army in 1942. His father, foreman of the mailing department, has been connected with the papers for more than 40 years.

O'Brien's death was doubly tragic since he was the father of a 3-months-old baby he had never seen. His wife is a former Arlington girl.

Marshall's Stepson Killed by Grenade

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY SOUTH OF ROME, June 2 (AP)—A sniper who threw a hand grenade from ambush fatally wounded Lieut. Allen Tupper Brown, 27, stepson of Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, it was disclosed today.

Lieut. Brown was commanding a light tank detachment attacking with the American infantry against the German line south of Rome on May 29. He was standing up in the turret of his tank a necessary procedure for armored commanders in rolling, tree-covered terrain—when the grenade was hurled.

Gripsholm Due At N. Y. Tuesday

NEW YORK, June 2 (INS)—The American Export Line announced that the diplomatic exchange ship Gripsholm is due to arrive in New York harbor Tuesday morning with wounded servicemen and a few civilian evacuees. Most of the civilians are South American citizens.

The vessel will dock at Jersey City.

Butter Causes Strike

SYDNEY, June 2 (INS)—Twelve coal ines in New South Wales stopped production today, six of them as a protest against the planned reduction in Australia's butter ration.

Veterans' Friend

Q—Will you please tell me where I can secure my honorable discharge service pin from the Army? A. J. N., Northfield Falls, Vt.

A—Pin may be secured at nearest Army post or headquarters in your section of the state.

Q—When a Yank soldier or sailor becomes a prisoner of war, does his pay continue and also family allotment?

E. L. F., Amesbury.

A—The pay of either soldier or sailor continues and family allotment is paid while he is the prisoner of an enemy government or being held by a neutral government.

Q—I received an honored discharge by reason of C. D. D., Sec II A. R. 615-360. Please tell me the meaning of the discharge?

J. J., Cambridge.

A—Because of physical incapacities and not able to meet the minimum requirements prescribed by the Army, you were given the discharge following examination by a medical board.

Q—My husband has been receiving $45 monthly, a disabled veteran of World War I. Are veterans of the first World War going to receive an increase?

P. D., Laconia, N. H.

A — The President has just signed a bill providing increases to disabled veterans. This increase is effective immediately, and the July 1 check should have the additional benefit.

Q—I was released from active duty in Sept., 1942, and placed in the enlisted reserve until June, 1943, when I received honorable discharge from the Army of the U. S. Am I entitled to mustering-out pay or $2 monthly bonus for being a member of the enlisted reserve? H. F. C., Augusta, Me.

A—Not entitled to mustering-out pay. Army states that no benefit is paid during wartime to those on enlisted reserve list.

Pope Pius

seeming utility and the so-called military exigencies or needs, and that the Eternal City, in every eventuality and at all costs, may be saved from becoming a theater of war."

Quoting a historian of the 19th Century, the Pontiff said Rome has good reasons before the world to be respected and left untouched. Rome has known terrible days in its history, he continued—in the 16th Century, in the 18th and on many other occasions.

"On all these occasions the Popes of the times succeeded in avoiding catastrophe," he said.

"To the list of our energies, and helped by so many good people, we intervened often. In spite of the violations of our rights we have tried to help the population of Rome and its surroundings, supplying them with food."

"We have also started negotiations in order to bring food by way of the sea. But the consent of one belligerent still is awaited."

CARDINAL'S MISSION

The Pope concluded his broadcast by telling the Cardinals:

"Our mission at the present moment is to save the family of mankind and prepare it for a saner future. It is of the highest importance that solutions be found which are not merely partly successful but true and enduring.

"Aims at total victory or complete destruction compel the peoples to resist at all costs, prolonging the war and threatening economic and social afflictions in the postwar period. Yet, for lasting peace, vindictive feelings must bow before the majesty of justice. We hope that God will bring the dawn of peace to the Roman hills and to the world."

RELIEF FROM
Headaches and Dizziness
Associated with
HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

G.P.L. TABLETS have never been sold as a cure for High Blood Pressure. They are to be considered at all times only an aid to the relief of the painful headaches and dizziness associated with High Blood Pressure.

If you suffer from the torturing pains of High Blood Pressure try G. P. L. Tablets as have thousands of others. G. P. L. Tablets provide many of the benefits of garlic without lingering after-effects. Through the use of a special process and their chocolate coating they are without taste and odor and may be taken freely without distaste or offense to others.

G. P. L. Tablets often aid in providing an easy and quick means of aiding relief of dizziness and headaches associated with High Blood Pressure. These tiny, chocolate coated tablets are free from all dangerous drugs and may be carried in purse or pocket to be taken at any convenient time.

Besides garlic, G. P. L. Tablets also contain concentrates of lettuce, endive, parsley and dulse.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE
Thousands of people have used G. P. L. Tablets. You, too, may purchase a package of these tablets and try them. If they do not satisfy you bring back the empty package and receive your entire purchase price.

A box of 75 G. P. L. Tablets costs but 89c. A small price for the relief they may bring you. G. P. L. Tablets are sold only at the Nature Food Centres Stores. Get your package today.

An Able Discussion

THE ABLE DISCUSSION of postwar reconversion problems by Governor Warren of California before the annual Governors' Conference at Hershey, Pa., has been hailed as a pre-convention speech.

The essence of what Governor Warren urges upon the country is that there must be a wholesome national unity—of government, industry and labor—in order that there can be a program of reconversion WITHOUT DISASTER.

Governor Warren believes the Conference of Governors is one of the nation's most efficient and trustworthy agencies available for participation in that program.

"We as governors want to engage in that discussion," he said at Hershey.

"We want to present the problems of our people as an assistance to Congress in the making of such legislation.

"In such an administrative agency this Conference should be a full working partner.

"We as Governors have much to bring to such a partnership.

"Our capitols are CLOSE to the people.

"We know their day-to-day problems.

"We administer to their more intimate needs.

"Our plans are from the ground up.

"That is where our national policy should START."

THERE will be an instant and vigorous national approval of this proposal.

The BEST government the American people have had in recent years has been provided by the States.

The most DEMOCRATIC government the people have is in the States.

The most efficient, practical and honest government in America today is in the States.

Governor Warren has given California an administration embracing those characteristics.

Governor Bricker has headed such an administration in Ohio, as has Governor Dewey in New York, and Governor Saltonstall in Massachusetts, and Governor Griswold in Nebraska.

The country's greatest opportunity, and greatest desire, is to have national government of the same able, efficient and honest character as has become dominant in the states.

The hasty, undemocratic, autocratic and dictatorial method of government is the NEW DEAL way of meeting emergencies—and of CREATING emergencies.

The way of good government which Governor Warren proposes, and which the Conference of Governors supports, is the AMERICAN way.

You Can Save a Life!

"DON'T LET the Purple Heart become a white cross. GIVE YOUR BLOOD AND SAVE A LIFE!" This is the challenging, irresistible plea of the American Red Cross.

It is made because great difficulty has been experienced in recent weeks in obtaining blood plasma quotas, especially those set for Boston.

Persons arranged for donations and then failed to report at the centers or, for some inadequate reason, cancelled their appointments.

As a result, plasma urgently needed to save the lives of young Americans wounded at sea or on battlefields WAS NOT OBTAINED.

Every pint of blood that will be donated this week and the additional weeks that separate us from victory and peace will be LIFE ASSURANCE for the men hourly risking death on the fighting fronts.

In every sense and meaning of the appelation, the BLOOD DONOR is a LIFE SAVER.

With the invasion imminent, blood donations should double and treble all previous records.

Every healthy person should visit a donor ater as soon as he can.

WASHINGTON, June 2—Unlike Caesar, the Republican National Committee does not believe that all Gall is divided into three parts. It contends that it is divided into only two parts—and that the parts are named Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, respectively.

I happened into committee headquarters today and saw members of the organization walking around muttering to themselves. I caught such phrases as "unmitigated gall," "colossal nerve," and a few others that my Aunt Hattie would not care to have me put in print.

"My stars and garters!" I exclaimed, because I always wear both this kind of weather. "You Republicans seem quite perturbed, if not irked. What has caused this unhappy situation?"

The question elicited more snorts than you might expect to hear in a Madrid bull ring, even with Franco throwing out the first heifer.

"It is that Philip Murray, the CIO president," said the head snorter. "And that Sidney Hillman, of the CIO's committee for political action! For sheer, downright impudence, they take the cake!"

I held up my hand soothingly.

"Now, now," I said. "Do not let our angry passions rise. Always remember this, and tell your children Uncle George said it:

"If you would not play the fool,
Give your temper time to cool!"

"Be calm now, and tell me what has happened?"

"What has happened!" was the yelp. "You know how crowded we are going to be for space at our national convention?

"Well—this Murray and this Hillman hate come out for Roosevelt.

"And now they have the colossal nerve to ask me for the hotel reservations in Chicago during our convention."

I WISH TO GIVE one more Republican quote anent Messrs. Murray and Hillman, to wit:

"If you ask me they have more crust than a deep-dish apple pie!"

WHEN I RETURNED from lunch today, Miss Marion Reid, my associate, said:

"Dinglefoot is in town!"

"Miss Reid," I said severely, "I have repeatedly asked you to keep your livery stable nicknames out of our business discourses. Be kind enough to call people by their proper names. Whom do you mean by Dinglefoot?"

"I mean Dingle Foot," repeated Miss Reid. "That is his right name. It says in the paper that he is parliamentary secretary to Britain's Minister of Economic Warfare.'

Still believing it must have been a typographical gag by a playful compositor, I called up Jack Winocour at the British Information Service.

"Mr. Winocour," I said, "of course, you do not have a man named Dingle Foot?"

"But we do," said Mr. Winocour. "His first name is Dingle and his last name is Foot. What about it?"

"Nothing," I said, "but if you see Dingle Foot you might tell him Miss Reid sends her regards."

Soles, onions, garlic, roach and dace—
All these you eat at Terre's Tavern
In that one dish of Bouillabaisse.
—THACKERAY.

THACKERY, Du Maurier, George Moore and many writers have raved about bouillabaisse. So it must be good. However, I never could become enthusiastic about it, though I have tried it in some of the best places in Paris, including Prunier's. I don't like onion soup, either . . . A top-flight general, now overseas, has predicted the things that will go down in history as having done most to win the current war are the P-38 pursuit plane, the C-47 transport plane, blood plasma, the bulldozer and the jeep . . . Seems a number of readers have heard of three brothers marrying three sisters. All right, but how many have heard of five brothers marrying five sisters? That happened in Alliance, Neb., when the five Scisily sisters married the five Colerick brothers.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL; So Brian Donlevy is to play Trampas in "The Virginian." He should do all right. However, I think Charles Bickford would do better. But either of these clever actors would be hard pressed to equal the performance of Frank Campeau in this part . . . A man named Doris Jones appears in the news. It is beyond me to understand what would prompt parents to name a male child Doris . . . In January, 1941, the average weekly wage in all manufacturing industries in the United States was $26.64. In January 1944, it was $45.15.

SMOKER: My claim was that Gen. MacArthur is a cigar smoker. This claim suffered a terrific setback when a recent news photo revealed the general smoking a pipe. Still more disconcerting is an excerpt from an article published in Fortune magazine in 1935 which refers to "the sparkplug of the Army, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, ceaselessly smoking cigarettes from a holder a little less than a foot long."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—You refer to your "bitter campaigns." What are some of them? I may want to go along with you. A—Well, there's our Bitter Campaign, No. 986, which is a battle for the improvement of restaurant soup; No. 898 against Italian, French, German and other foreign operas being produced in English; No. 364, against the huddle—too much time out and too many substitutions in football; No. 1894, against the bride offering her cheek for the wedding kiss; No. 1894-A, against wives and sweethearts offering a cheek for a parting or greeting kiss; No. 644, against mixing carrots with peas; No. 1113, against movie females gushing, breathing or gasping "darling" more than 50 times in one picture . . . Q—Is quarter-horse racing still regularly held anywhere in the United States? A—Yes, indeed. There is a quarter-horse racing association. Most of this type of racing takes place in Texas and Arizona. The betting is terrific.

PLATONIC LOVE: The references to platonic love are many. The natural belief is that Plato originally sponsored this type of affection. However, Irwin Erdman, an authority on the subject, says: "Plato was not the author of the anemic abstraction that has become known as platonic love. Love between two human beings was for Plato the most potent source of all idealism. It was the soil in which the rose of heavenly absorption came to flower, the earth in which the skylark was nourished and from which it rose to sing its song."

SIDELIGHTS: More than 60 German generals have been captured on the Russian front . . . Synthetic quinine has been successfully developed by Drs. Robert Woodward and William E. Doering of Harvard University. Both of these brilliant chemists is 27 years old. Theirs is one of the many recent triumphs of youth.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—If you ask me, I don't see how they're going to make a movie out of the best-selling "Lost Week-End." But with Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder at the helm for Paramount—well, those boys seem to be able to do anything.

Wilder is as enthusiastic as a kid with a new toy. "I don't know how we're going to handle it," he admitted, "but I'm fascinated with the story." Who isn't?

On second thought, there is a great chance for both pathos and fantasy in this psychological story of a drunk. To please the Hays Office, Wilder and Brackett will probably have to reform their hero. But in the vagaries of his mind there is wonderful opportunity to go into the same sort of dream-world that made "Lady in the Dark" so unusual. I bet it was a pretty penny (up in six figures) author Charles Jackson collected for his novel from Buddy De Sylva, who bought it.

HERE'S GRAND NEWS for the younger generation. Their favorite member of the Signal Corps, and one of their favorite young actors, Lon McCallister, is headed for Hollywood. Guess what he is to be? One of the leads in "Winged Victory" for 20th Century-Fox. Of course, that is really a government project film, and since the Air Corps gets a goodly amount it was possible to put Lon into the show in a spot that cried for an actor of his type.

WHILE MARY PICKFORD says she is greatly flattered by Constance Bennett's invitation to play the role of Etta Shiber in "Paris Underground," she cannot do it because she has an English play she plans to produce. Also, there is a deal pending with Hunt Stromberg whereby Mary would co-produce a film. Connie is in town for a few weeks making all arrangements to start the best-selling "Paris Underground" for United Artists. She, herself, bought the film rights and will play an important role, but she wants another well-known actress for the other woman's part.

JANE FROMAN, the singer who was so critically injured when the Clipper in which she was a passenger crashed at Lisbon, is expected in Hollywood before the end of the summer. In a letter just received from New York, it was stated that Miss Froman had the cast removed from her right leg, and although she still wears a brace it is hoped that she will be able to walk without assistance. Here is hoping that she will be able to resume her career soon.

JUST HEARD from New York that Lisette Verea, the beautiful Romanian actress who scored such a hit as Clo-Clo in "The Merry Widow," is headed for Hollywood. She reaches here June 8 for a very important screen test. In fact, I suspect that Frank Orsatti has already made a deal for her at M-G-M. Could be wrong, but she's certainly photogenic and should do all right for herself.

* * *

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Here is a story that is heart warming: James and Celia Schreck, age 84 and 76, respectively, are probably the oldest extras in Hollywood. Directors like to use them whenever they can because they can then be independent and earn their own livelihood, and, besides, they are good actors and know the movie business. They are now working at Warners and when I asked how long they had been married, James said: "Oh, quite a spell. Fifty-one years." So, you see, happy marriages are possible in our town.

THE PIRANDELLO PLAY, "As Before, Better Than Before," which was produced by the Theater Guild some years ago, is now the property of M-G-M. Bruce Manning wrote an adaptation, but Universal had difficulty in getting the right cast, so Metro's substantial offer was accepted. I am told a big price was paid, but it seems to be the style now to pay a high price for stage hits both past and present.

* * *

ONE OF the prettiest girls in Hollywood is Virginia Hawks, ex-wife of William Hawks, who had just started her movie career when she married him. Virginia never felt that she had sufficient training at that time to go into second leads, and so she is happy that she is to have the benefit of 20th Century-Fox training. She signed a contract with talent scout Rufus Lemaire, who is having Tom Moore, dramatic coach, teach her. It's my belief that she will blossom out as a valuable 20th star.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Vincent Prices have reconciled; Mrs. John Wayne is hostessing a shower for Loretta Young next Wednesday and all of Loretta's friends are being asked; remember angel-faced Dickie Moore? Well, he writes his pals that he is doing K. P. duty at Camp Silbert in Alabama; Tyrone Power and Annabella are putting their Brentwood estate on the market. Ty expects to go overseas and Annabella is in for a long run in "Jacobowsky and the Colonel"; Gov. Edge has written to Will Hays, protesting in the name of the State of New Jersey against Andrew Stone's use of the title "Miss America." That's certainly developed into a real feud; Doris Duke, one of the world's richest girls, has just graduated from the United Seaman's Service School in New York, and she is expected to go into overseas service within 60 days. Wonder what will happen to her widely publicized divorce suit from James Cromwell? Reports from New York say that Miriam Hopkins and John Gunther have taken up where they left off and are seeing each other daily; 20-year-old Kay Penton, called the most beautiful girl in radio, is being offered tests from three different companies and may head for Hollywood; Belita, the little queen of the ice, and Bobby Specht, star of the current Icecapades, have discovered each other and it looks like the real thing; Artie Shaw, who was one of the hot-shot popular orchestra leaders before he went into the Army, is organizing a new band; Elsa Maxwell is at the Beverly Hills Hotel until Mrs. Evalyn McLean arrives, then they will live at Countess Di Frassi's house.

Nazi-Lynched Yanks Put at 6

BERN, Switzerland, June 2 (AP) — The Berlin correspondent of Bern's De Bund today placed at six the number of American airmen lynched in Germany and expressed belief German propaganda had been interpreted by the people as "permission—even incitement" to take Allied pilots into their own hands in disregard of the rules of international warfare.

(One dispatch to the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet, which sometimes expresses the Nazi viewpoint, previously told of one lynching, while another dispatch told of five. Sec. Stimson said yesterday in Washington he had no information on the reports and therefore could not comment).

Nurse's Aides Badly Needed

More than 1000 Red Cross nurse's aides, in addition to 1400 now at work in Boston hospitals, are needed to meet present shortages, it was announced today by officials of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter.

Seeking to fill this great need, next week has been dedicated to the Red Cross Volunteer Nurse's Aide Corps.

"Our greatest need today is for women volunteers between the ages of 17 and 55, with high school education or its equivalent," declared Mrs. Frank G. Allan, chairman of the drive.

"A serious shortage already exists in civilian hospitals and as the armed forces call for more and more nurses this shortage steadily becomes more acute."

Marvels at M'Arthur Speed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, June 2 (AP)—"What I have seen on my trip gives me absolute conviction Gen. MacArthur is well on his way to the Philippines," Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to Australia, said on his return from an inspection of American positions on New Guinea.

Johnson expressed amazement at New Guinea achievements and said air bases which our forces have built on the big island are the wonders of the world.

"In the Markham valley is the base of Nadzab. It's a miracle city as mystic as if it rose by magic.

"The Hollandia operation actually amounted to lifting a city the size of Madison, Wis., with its utilities, its restaurants, its police force, its hospitals and its transportation and placing it down in overwhelming force against a surprised enemy 500 miles from the starting point. The planning, timing and co-ordination required is beyond one's imagination."

Bill Asks U. S. License Radio News Reporters

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Radio news commentators with commercial sponsors would have to get federal licenses under legislation being drawn up by Sen. Johnson (D.) of Colorado. They also would have to obey a "code of ethics" laid down by Congress.

Johnson, a member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, advanced this plan to take the place of a now-sidetracked proposal by Chairman Wheeler (D.) of Montana to prohibit news broadcasts sponsored by advertisers.

Calling a flat prohibition too drastic, Johnson told a reporter he thought Wheeler's aim of preventing what he called the "smearing" of people in offical life or public prominence could be accomplished if:

1—Sponsored commentators had to get licenses from the communications commission and be subject to a "code of ethics" written into law.

2—The commission could revoke the licenses of those who break the code by "departing from the path of decency and fair play in attacks upon those who do not have an equal opportunity to answer."

Wheeler has called off committee hearings on a bill he drafted jointly with acting minority leader White of Maine, making sweeping changes in the Communications Act, including his ban of commercial news broadcasts, after bitter differences with the radio industry over a number of provisions.

Open Campaign For Campbell

A state-wide drive for election of William F. Campbell, chief accountant at the registry of motor vehicles, for the post of state commander of the American Legion was under way today following a meeting of Norfolk County Legionnaires at the Parker House.

Campbell, past commander of Wollaston Post, now is vice-commander of the Massachusetts Department.

Members of all posts of Norfolk County joined in sponsoring Campbell's candidacy. Elected were the following officers of the general committee: Atty. Harold Fields, Brookline Post, chairman; Oliver Selby, past commander Wollaston Post, secretary; James Henderson, Brookline Post, treasurer.

Replant Wherever Crops Are Ruined

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Market Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

If the hot spell has ruined your crops, don't give up—your victory garden now is needed more than ever.

Soak your land down well and replant. The dry weather cannot continue indefinitely and you are sure to have better luck next time.

The commercial production of crops is off. This means less for sale and although prices may not show it because of government regulation, there will be a definite shortage.

More V-gardens will offset shortage. There is still time for victory gardeners to plant most crops—with peas, spinach, head-lettuce as an exception. With this in mind, listen to the appeal of your government agencies and plant as much as you can. Keep the land busy. If early seedlings have failed, replant again. You may have better luck next time.

INSECTS STARTING TROUBLE

Hot weather is usually accompanied by serious insect attacks and this year is no exception. We are already experiencing serious attacks on beets, spinach, and Swiss chard by the beet leaf miner. This insect works inside the leaf and cannot be controlled by spraying. If your spinach and chard is too badly hit, it might be well to harvest it and replant with some other crop. There is still time to plant Swiss chard and beets.

Flea-beetles are still active. Protect your tomatoes or they will be damaged seriously during this hot weather. Keep in mind that plants cannot resist both hot dry weather and insects.

Water your garden now. Let me again point out that a good soaking is necessary for good results. Be sure to water all plants set out now or you may lose them.

PLANT ALL CROPS

This week should see all crops in but tomatoes and peppers. These will not be delayed much if held back for another few days. They may even escape the extreme flea-beetle damage. Be sure to set them deep if they are tall.

Continue to cultivate all crops as this will save what moisture we have. Sod land is standing up better and shows less damage from drought.

Bay State Advisors Named for OPA Board

Louis A. Webster, state commissioner of agriculture, and Joseph Decatur, of the Farm Bureau Federation, Inc., have been named as the Massachusetts representatives on the new OPA New England Agricultural Cooperating Committee, headed by Carl Smith, Maine commissioner of agriculture. The committee will advice the OPA on broad general agricultural policies in New England.

SKETCHED ON THE 40-ACRE FARM OF MR. CHARLES PETERSON A HOOD PRODUCER FOR OVER 23 YEARS

From farms like this....

comes Hood's superior flavor!

No two of the hundreds of New England dairy farms that produce Hood's Milk are just alike, but there are certain things they all must have in common in order to meet and maintain the high standards we have set up to protect the quality, purity and flavor of Hood's Milk.

Although his farm and herd are not as large as some Hood producers, Charlie Peterson's barns are kept as spotlessly clean, his cows are fed the same properly-balanced diet and he uses the same type of modern sterilized equipment.

These are just a few of the precautions taken by the farmers so you'll get the most enjoyment from the flavor of your Hood's Milk—full benefit from its nutritive value.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Woodruff Randolph of Chicago was voted president of the ITU in its election May 17, the board of electors said in its official report.

The proposition to reaffiliate with the American Federation of Labor and the proposition to reduce the pension and mortuary assessment carried.

Randolph received 27,723 votes to defeat the incumbent president, Claude M. Baker of San Francisco.

Protest Hearings Open

Hearings on protests against the nomination papers of 16 candidates in the coming primaries began today before the State Ballot Law Commission, with Chairman Joseph A. Conway of Hull presiding.

Bridal in Capital

LIEUT. COMPTON SARGENT of Manchester and his Kentucky belle will walk altarward June 24. She is Gertrude Bayne Breckenridge, daughter of Mrs. Scott D. Breckenridge of Louisville, Ky.

The wedding will be in Washington, former home of the bride's family and nearest big city to Ft. Belvoir where Compton is stationed. He is the son of the Fitzwilliam Sargents who have a big house on the ocean front at Manchester and a home in Haverford, Pa. His mother, well known as a socialite actress, has played on Broadway and in a number of productions of the North Shore Players.

FIVE GREATER BOSTON post debs are homeward bound with Associate of Art Degrees from Stephens College. They are Patricia Freeman of Chestnut st., Beth Davis, Betsy Atwood, Virginia Hole and Patricia Jean Richards of Newtonville.

Joan Burr Wallace of Chestnut Hill is due home next week with a diploma from Rogers Hall in Lowell. She is engaged to Robert W. MacPherson of Cambridge, who is in the Army overseas.

MARY ELIZABETH CLARKE of Brookline and Arthur E. Beane, Jr., of Cambridge, who become Mr. and Mrs. in the Church of the Redeemer tomorrow afternoon, are enjoying a miniature whirl all their own as friends and family entertain.

This evening, after the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips Purdy of Brookline are giving a buffet supper for the couple and their 14 attendants. Tomorrow noon, the Ralph E. Thompsons, next door neighbors of the Clarkes on Warren st., will give a luncheon, and bridesmaid Mrs. A. Nathaniel Pierce (Anne Whicher) is giving a luncheon for the bride today. Another gay pre-wedding fete was the luncheon given by Mrs. Randolph Post Eddy (Jean Clark) also a bridesmaid.

Miss Elizabeth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Clarke. Her fiance is the son of Mrs. Arthur Beane and the late Judge Beane of Cambridge and Duxbury.

ROUND AND ABOUT: For dining out the hottest night this year attractive Mrs. Frederic C. Church, who often tops Boston's "best dressed" list, wore a cool looking dark background print with short sleeves and low square neck accented by her ever present pearls.

A pair of radiant brides-to-be lunching together at Schrafft's yesterday were Leslie Morgan and Jane Patterson who is as brunette as Leslie is blonde. Both wore white background prints and were bare headed.

Mrs. William Bayne lunched with her peppy post deb, Carol, and Mrs. Paul Clark with daughter Jean (Mrs. Randolph P. Eddy) who is home from Georgia to be bridesmaid in a couple of June weddings. Mrs. Bayne's fetching white straw beanie had bunches of white lacquered cherries on both sides and her navy silk suit touches of white at the neck. Mrs. Clark was in her trim Red Cross uniform.

Fortunes

markable only in that she had made her deductions so instantaneously:

"You are a definite person," she said. "You do not like to be bossed." (I had removed only one glove, instead of both, as she had directed.) She looked at my finger tips and went on: "You work at something with your fingers, like this . . . (tapping all 10 fingers on the table as if running a typewriter).

"You are very nervous," she continued. "Just now, you don't know if you're coming or going."

(It could be assumed I was disturbed about something since I was consulting a fortune teller.)

LOVE LINE BROKEN

"There is a very long life ahead of you," she kept on, gazing hard at my left palm, "but your love line is broken. This means you're not married now, but have been."

(I don't look like a spinster, yet I was not wearing a wedding ring—an easy deduction.)

"Now you will be married again—but there is something strange about it all. There is someone who was part of your life who now wants to come back into it again. But he's stubborn and there is someone around him who won't let him go . . . a woman I think . . . but he wants to come back to you eventually. You know, within a three you'll hear from him—three weeks, three months or three years."

It was easy to note this is the line she feeds to the dissatisfied divorcee, or the cast-off woman, who, embittered and unsure of herself, is the best prey of fortune tellers.

"You're too reserved," she admonished, "men like you, but they're afraid of you. Be a good fellow, go out and have a good time."

But it was at this point she caught a flash of the Marine emblem I was wearing.

A little adroit question on her part established this was a brother, or so I allowed her to think. Then—quick as lightning—came her prediction of a death in the family attached to $10,000.

She then graciously invited me to ask any question I wish. She looked hurt when I asked how soon the war would end. This is what she answered, showing she evidently had been caught in her own false predictions of sometime before:

SEES HAPPY FUTURE

"Well—the war—that's a confused thing. I had the vibrations it was definitely to be over the end of last year. Then something went wrong and it continued on. But I think it will be over in a few months. You'll see. It should have been over last January."

She was very apologetic about this, proving she must have told many other clients last year that the war would be over before its end.

She tried to end the meeting on just the right note: "You've had lots of disappointments—a very unhappy life—much has happened to you that has been hard to bear (what woman in her heart doesn't believe that she's been the strong, silent martyr?) but I see much more happiness for you in the future."

I felt like screeching: "On that blood money? On that $10,000?"

In Roxbury we found another colorless example of this less virulent brand of fortune tellers. This one has the daffiest way yet devised of peering into the future. She simply mumbles a string of numbers to herself—pausing when she hits one with the right "vibrations."

PREDICTS MARRIAGE

She's an ample woman with rosy cheeks and salt-and-pepper hair built-up in a pompadour. There's an old stuffed owl on the table where she makes her clients sit for the readings.

Unlike the others, she skipped my past background, having first established my marital state.

One hand over her eyes, she asked my first name.

I gave her Patricia.

Then she launched into the following staccato mumbo-jumbo:

"Is Patricia lucky in love? 1944-15-46-47-48—yes! Patricia will be lucky in love. Will Patricia marry again soon? 44-45-46-47—yes! Patricia will marry again very soon — no — wait — not right away—47—47—47—yes, I seem to get the vibrations around 47—Patricia will be married in 1947."

By the same method she quoted five as my lucky number and Monday as my lucky day. She then spoke vaguely about my work (she was way off the track) and hinted at friction with one person, as all fortune tellers always hint.

But she ended with quite a bang. After questioning me about beaus she told me she saw one around me by the name of George. (I don't know any George.)

"Don't you marry him," she warned me cheerfully. He's not right for you—I don't think he's even free to marry you. He has a wife somewhere. You didn't know that, did you? The next time he asks you to marry him, you just set the date and watch him run."

She was just as uninteresting and off the track with a fellow reporter from the Daily Record.

Yet this woman is collecting a lot of money by just having a sign in her window which draws people in with its promise she can solve all problems and "read into the future."

New Bedford fortune teller with two sons in the service is subject of the next installment of this series. Read it in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

Blonde Twins Steal Honors

Mickey Rooney, who was having trouble with tea-drinking at Eton some semesters ago, is currently suffering from blondes dancing before his eyes in "Andy Hardy's Blonde Trouble," now unreeling on Loew's twin screens.

Locale for this 14th chapter in Metro's "typical" American boy series is Wainwright College and environs, his dad's (Lewis Stone) alma mater and now Andy's stamping-ground.

The education Andy gets is largely extramural and distractingly blonde, the college being co-educational and Andy being on most co-operative terms with the fair students. A headache big enough for a horse afflicts Andy as the result of the off-and-on-again shenanigans of twins. The blondely lovely Lee and Lyn Wilde are playing at being one because their father has been advised by a psychologist that identical twins should be separated in the interest of individuality.

As is his wont, Andy's good-will effort in their behalf involves him financially to the point where he has determined to walk out on his incipient college career. In the nick of time, however, dependable, unsuspecting Judge Hardy happens along and between him and his old college pal, the dean, whom Herbert Marshall impersonates with his customary skill, Andy's walk-out is nipped in the bud.

The Wilde twins, cute blonde youngsters who are soon to be featured in a picture about twins written especially for them, steal the show when they're on the screen. Lee sings a snatch from a song, "You'd Be so Easy to Love," and Lyn does a dancing bit to the same music, both acquitting themselves competently. Bonita Granville, who has a crush on the dean but who eventually gets Andy, seems too mature for the volatile Rooney.

Stone, Fay Holden and Sara Haden give their usual likeable Hardy characterizations. There are satisfactory performances by Keye Luke, Jean Porter and Marta Linden of the supporting cast.

"Sailor's Holiday" has to do with wolves in navy blue, as you might guess.

P. D.

"UNCERTAIN GLORY," with experienced swashbuckler Errol Flynn and naive villager Jean Sullivan in the romantic clinches, is due on the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow. This sudden booking terminates "The Hitler Gang" run with tonight's final showing.

Coast Guard Revue Really Tops

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Tars and Spars," the U. S. Coast Guard's tabloid revue which has been touring the vaudeville circuit since its Florida opening several months ago, clicked solidly at yesterday's opening at the RKO Boston.

It is a certainty to do capacity business in this musical comedy-minded town. Mind you, it is not only good, it excels not a few lavishly produced musicals recently previewed here with plenty of pomp and circumstance.

The book and lyrics are by Broadway and Metro's Howard Dietz. Vernon Duke, lieutenant in the Coast Guard, now readying the score for a fall musical production, did the score. It is a strictly swell combination of talent, and gets excellent presentation by a uniformed cast that is all Coast Guard and fairly generally pre-war professional.

And professional, too, was the clockwise precision with which the show moved at the opening show, rounding out 60 minutes of slick entertainment on the hour.

Gower Champion, whom you'll remember as the masculine half of a first-rate dance team, is the star in the hoofing division. He, singer Charlie Hogg, comic Sidney Caesar, Boston's own Marc Ballero, who does takeoffs of Churchill, Allen, Benny, Durante, etc., Dorchester's dancing Benny Yaffee and dancer-choreographer Ted Gary are the show's standouts. They are tops in any league.

The SPARS are more on the decorative side . . . they being largely amateurs in the footlights department. When Marjorie Parker, Margaret Kenneback, Gloria Tickell, Lorraine Whitney and Dolores Kennedy are on stage so smart are they in their navy blues, the distaffers must be counting the minutes until they can form to the right of the recruiting booth.

Ornamental, too, is that handsome hunk of man, Vic Mature, who has been discovered by his fellow Coast Guarders as a "hunk of junk," he admits glibly. Mature gets a loudly enthusiastic greeting from the customers but Ballero's Sinatra make-believing in the "All Or Nothing At All" vocalizing really stopped the show.

Gower Champion and Harry Blumenthal, in a Paul Draper-Larry Adler "Harmonics" dance-and-harmonica turn, Charlie Hogg's "Apprentice Seaman" vocals and Sidney Ceasar's "Recruiting" numbers were other show-stoppers.

And, from overture to finale, the Invaders orchestra from the USS Samuel Chase delivered a hundred per cent.

Tasty Molasses Ice-Box Cookies for Your Picnic

By MARTHA LEE

GASOLINE SHORTAGES may have put the damper on some of our good times, but the simple pleasures of a real outdoor picnic are still to be had for the looking. Favorite haunts, the woodland retreat or the sheltered inlet at the shore may be out of reach, but hitherto undiscovered spots nearer home sometimes rival what we considered our best picnic ground.

No matter how tired they get, everyone will be happy, and that means Gargantuan appetites. So, like the Boy Scouts, let's "be prepared." Lots of food—delicious, easy-to-make, easy-to-eat, and nourishing. Whole tomatoes, raw carrots, olives and pickles make sandwiches taste extra-special. And with nice big molasses cookies to bite into for dessert, your picnic will step into the special events classification.

PEANUT BUTTER, BACON AND PICKLE SANDWICHES

4 slices bacon
½ cup peanut butter
2 tbsp. India relish

Fry bacon until crisp, chop fine and add to peanut butter and relish. Spread between slices of buttered bread, using leaf of lettuce in each sandwich, if desired.

ITALIAN SANDWICHES

½ cup minced ham
½ cup minced celery
Cayenne pepper
Prepared mustard
2 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 tbsp. chili sauce

Combine ham and celery and season with pepper and mustard. Moisten with mayonnaise and chili sauce. Spread filling between slices of buttered white or whole wheat bread.

TONGUE AND HORSERADISH SANDWICHES

1 cup minced tongue, ham, cold roast beef or other cold meat
1 tsp. evaporated horseradish (soaked for 10 minutes in 1 tbsp. cold water)
2 tbsp. chili sauce or tomato ketchup
1 tbsp. stuffed olives, sliced
1 tbsp. chopped green pepper
Mayonnaise (to taste and moisten)

Combine all ingredients and spread between slices of buttered bread.

DEVILED CHEESE AND HAM SANDWICHES

1 cup grated American cheese
½ cup ground ham
2 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Combine above ingredients and spread between slices of buttered rye or whole wheat bread. Serve with dill pickle.

MOLASSES ICE-BOX COOKIES

⅔ cup molasses
⅔ cup melted shortening
3 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. cinnamon ¼ tsp. cloves
1 egg, beaten 1 tsp. ginger
½ tsp. salt ½ tsp. soda

Combine molasses and shortening. Add egg and stir until blended. Sift together dry ingredients and add. Stir until smooth. Form into roll and wrap in waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator 2 to 3 hours, or until firm. Slice thin and bake on greased baking sheet in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

Fashion

SO CHIC . . . Be brief . . . bare what you can under the sun . . . and be as fetching as RKO Starlet Daun Kennedy in her sports printed paisley shorts . . . that button up in bright rose cotton . . . to match the trim along the waist and thigh. The button-down-the-front dress . . . mated to the outfit . . . is for after Old Sol has done you to a beautiful brown.—R. M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Thursday—Yesterday a great many people, who at one time or another during the past 10 years have taken part in Mary Margaret McBride's radio hour, went to Madison Square Garden to celebrate her 10th anniversary on the air.

If anyone ever doubted that she has a great radio following, yesterday surely proved that she has. I have seen the Garden filled for important meetings, but never before have I seen it as full as it was yesterday for just one woman and a program of radio interviews.

Miss McBride dedicated the program to the recruiting of women for the armed services.

* * *

IN THE LATE AFTERNOON I went with Justice Justine Wise Polier to see a photographic exhibit, "The Negro in American Life," sponsored by the Council Against Intolerance in America, and shown at the Art of This Country Gallery. John Becker planned and executed the exhibit, which is remarkably good because it is so simple.

The exhibit has been shown at Groton School, Groton, Mass.

IN THE EVENING, I went to see the play "The Searching Wind," written by Miss Lillian Hellman, with Cornelia Otis Skinner, Dennis King, Dudley Digges, Barbara O'Neil and Arnold Korff playing the chief parts.

The last scene, to me, was the biggest and most moving scene of the play, and I thought Montgomery Clift played it extraordinarily well.

The political parts of the play were painful, because they pointed the usual moral which we like to ignore. We compromise, we hesitate, we do not speak out on our convictions, and the younger generations pay for the lack of vision and courage shown by their elders. Do we learn, I wonder?

Beauty

TAKE THE SUN AND LOVE IT . . . whether it's in the backyard or on the rooftop . . . but be sure to safeguard your delicate skin with sunburn preparations . . . that are dependables against lobster-red scorching and will help you tan comfortably . . . and pass on the precautionary word of wisdom to the Big Moment . . . lest he, too, look like a flaming torch after an outing on the golf links. Warner Starlet Joan Leslie poses.

Suntan the Painless Way

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

YOU'LL PROBABLY BE doing without a vacation this year . . . letting a serviceman enjoy travelling in your place. But this doesn't mean that you must do without a healthy suntanned look because there's always a backyard or rooftop . . . or a handy beach close by.

And, as long as you have these to fall back on . . . you can be as deeply bronzed . . . or as lightly sunkissed as you were in those bygone leisure summers. The sun is good for you, you know . . . next winter you'll need the stored-up energy which relaxation in the sun can give. But, you don't have to spend your first summer half-day getting a scorching case of sunburn . . . running the risk of injuring the delicate facial tissues below the top layer.

No need to be uncomfortable for bronzed beauty's sake . . . when there are three dependable anti-sunburn preparations that will help you to tan comfortably. If you take your sunning where and when you find it . . . a Sunday now and then . . . or a few hours in the victory garden . . . guard your skin against unaccustomed exposure with a sunburn cream . . . that is a creamy, cool-feeling lotion.

It acts as a screen between your skin and the sun . . . restraining the ambitious little rays that can turn tender flesh lobster red before you realize it. But the cream lets enough sunshine through to give you a healthy tan . . . a lot or a little . . . depending on how you apply this cream.

NOTHING STICKY OR OILY ABOUT LOTION

If you prefer to use a clear, transparent type of sun-screen . . . this beautician has devised a suntan lotion that's a great favorite with men . . . because it's an invisible guard against sunburn. Once it's on . . . you can't see it . . . and there's nothing sticky or oily about it so the man of the house can't object to its being "sissy." If the Big Moment does a lot of gardening or golfing or boating in his spare time . . . and suffers from fiery sunburn afterward . . . discreetly place a bottle of this suntan lotion where he'll see it . . . and take an ounce of prevention.

For the gal who takes swimming seriously . . . popping in and out of the water . . . beach oil is the thing. It lubricates the skin . . . keeps it supple and free from that dried-out look . . . but at the same time . . . provides a thin protective film which stays on even in the water.

However you take the sun, you'll want one, at least, of these three simply grand suntan preparations. They are one dollar apiece.

And, I'll be happy to tell you their names, if you phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed nevelope.

Keep Hubby's Name

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN—I have a very dear friend who is a widow. She and I would deeply appreciate your advice concerning her name. She calls herself, let's say, Mrs. John Smith, but many of her friends are constantly telling her that she should call herself Mrs. Margaret Smith. She insists that she is right, that she is very proud of her husband's name and says she likes to use it. R. M.

I wish I could shake your friend's hand, and congratulate her on her good taste and good sense! She is right, completely right, in using Mrs. John Smith. And the friends who tell her that she should use Mrs. Margaret Smith are wrong, completely wrong. Of course she's proud of her husband's name, and of course she wouldn't discard the name her husband gave her any more than she would discard the wedding ring he gave her. Mrs. Margaret Smith is never a correct form socially . . . not for a married woman, or for a widow, or for a divorce, for "Mrs." should not be used before a woman's first name.

Linen Duster Back—in Silk

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE linen duster was a coat that flourished in the very best society at the beginning of this century. It has been, however, merely a memory for old-timers these many years.

Now, young Norman Norell, who has about the biggest name in fashion design in the industry, revives this really elegant coat. He makes it of silk, that heavy silk that comes from China and is called shantung.

Norman Norell makes his silk duster in the natural color, and lines and collars it with a leopard printed crepe in black, tawny beige and brown. Miss Dulin has sketched this model, which is quite grand enough to wear to the most formal place, and informal enough to wear a lot of other places, too. When closed the coat buttons down the front, and the sleeves turn back to show the leopard print of the lining.

Wife Should Shed Old Love First

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm a married woman, have two children, and we all live on my father's farm. My husband evades the draft by pretending he's working on the farm, although he does very little. He has an outside job, gets good pay but he never gives us any of his money nor buys anything for the children or myself.

My husband spends all his money on himself and sometimes stays out all night, while I do all the farm work—milking cows, etc. The doctor has warned me not to work so hard.

I have a widower friend whose wife has been dead eight years, and he wants me to marry him and bring the children to live with him. He is honest and I know would be good to all of us. But I told him I couldn't do that unless I was free from my husband.—M. C. S.

I'd certainly be off with the old love before I'd be on with the new, as the maxim warns. The latter part of your letter doesn't state whether the widower wants you to come and bring the children now, before you get a divorce or not. That would be unthinkable. You would have no standing. Your husband could sue you for divorce, and such an arrangement would be out of the question for the children.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, June 2—Have you heard the interesting rumor (probably premature) that Mussolini has been dead and buried for several months? Isn't the Wayne Lonergan case due for a reopening and another splash on the front pages? . . . Is there anything to the report—let's hope not!—that if Gary Cooper's producing venture is a success, he'll stop being an actor? . . . Hasn't Artie Shaw been quietly assembling a super-colossal band which may debut at a leading nitery this Autumn? . . . Do you know that Broadway Rose's family has been warned again by the police to keep her out of the theater district, where she has ceased to be amusing? . . . Isn't playwright Irwin Shaw now soldiering in England? . . . Have you heard that Blossom Seeley, once the toast of Broadway, will return to show business in a few weeks in a musical flicker with husband Benny Fields?

ISN'T A ward heeler who fronts a prominent cafe one of the reasons for certain Senators feeling the way they do about the 30 per cent cafe tax? . . . Have you heard about the plan at the 51 Club to have Harrington and Hyers do a weekly burlesque of a top radio show? . . . Do you know that Barbara Smith, who used to be one of the town's pet debbies, is now working in a defense plant in Arizona—and is about to divorce her husband Bobby Martyn? . . . Have you heard about Florence Callahan, the 6-foot blonde photographer at the Zanzibar, who tried to sell a picture to a 20th Century-Fox executive and wound up with a screen test? . . . Do you know that Lorraine Rognan, whose husband, Roy, was killed in the Lisbon Clipper crash, is in England entertaining troops and expects to be shipped to the Italian front lines for similar chores? . . . Won't Henry Wallace's gift to Chiang Kai-shek be farm implements rather than armament?

* * *

DO YOU KNOW that Victor Borge, who came here penniless three years ago, is now in the 90 per cent bracket, poor fellow? . . . What's happened to the flowers-in-the-hair fad? . . . Are Frankie and his cigarette sponsor chilling? . . . Have you tried to buy any prewar golf balls, and did you faint when you were asked four bucks each for them? . . . Don't you think fighter Lee Savold and singer Kenny Baker are look-alikes? . . . Is Charles Boyer really going to play a Jap villain in his next film? . . . Are the Frank Hunters being silly?

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, June 2—All radio programs have been instructed to be ready to be interrupted for news flashes on the invasion and to be prepared on how [illegible] to continue with their particular program after this momentous announcement . . . The book section of the Times relays this story about William Saroyan which reached them by delayed courier: "Incredible as it may sound in the Stork Club, when the Pulitzer Prize repudiator arrived in Dayton, O., to join the Signal Corps, the event was something less than a bombshell in the local city rooms. However, word did get around that a bona fide literary gent was uniform nearby. Eventually, a local news dealer bestowed the accolade. 'Hey, soldier,' he shouted as Bill passed his stand one night, 'is it true that your name's William Sarong?'" . . . Pfc. Jules Levine writes that this advertisement was posted on a G I Theater near Naples: "Tonight Only! First Showing in Italy! 'The Birth of a Nation.'"

Lois Andrews

GEORGE JESSEL and Lois Andrews are discussing a deal to play the Roxy Theater together . . . The stay-up-lates generally gather around the piano at Mocambo to listen to Emil Coleman play their favorite songs . . . William Goetz' International Pictures gave a very entertaining "preview party" on the set of "The Belle of the Yukon," in which the musical numbers in the picture were enacted for the guests. Gypsy Rose Lee led the chorus and Dinah Shore sang her songs from the picture, but the highlight of the show was the reciting of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" by none other than the author of that famous poem, Robert W. Service . . . Barbara Reggie, in her "Profile of Margaret Webster," writes that when Miss Webster is staging a play by her favorite author William Shakespeare, she will say to the performers: "That's the way we meant it, and that's the way it's going to be." Margaret Webster sounds as if she is a sure thing for Hollywood.

ON THE SET of "Here Come the Waves," Bing Crosby was waiting for me, "I read where Bob Hope has been giving you some horse racing gags, and telling you that my horse yarns aren't any good," said Bing.

I had to admit that this was so.

"Let me tell you," went on Bing, "that Hope doesn't know anything about horses. His only connection with them is to make some uninspired jokes. And what's more, I don't know if horses would have anything to do with him.

"But leaving jokes out of this," continued Bing, "the people around a race track have a colorful lingo of their own. There's nothing funny about this line I'm going to tell you, but it certainly is expressive. A trainer I know was giving instructions to a jockey before a race. He said to the jockey: 'This horse is ready. You don't rule him. You just sit on him. It's good-bye starter, hello judge.

"It's the best way," said Bing, "that I ever heard a person describe a sure thing."

Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Friday, June 2, 1944

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are quick in thought and deed, sometimes thoughtless. Clever in many ways. Talents aplenty, but inclined to be unappreciative of some important interests. Should be encouraged to high aspirations and spiritual development, which is essential to true happiness and to bring forth your finer traits. Self-mastery will enable you to be a useful, admired citizen. Birthdate of Thomas Hardy, English novelist; Sir Edward Elgar, noted composer; Johnny Weissmuller, swimmer, screen actor.

Boston After Dark

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S office has been asked to investigate alleged operations by two famous Boston headwaiters . . . Banquet gratuities which failed to reach their intended recipients caused the uproar . . . Manager Newton "Newt" Smith of the Hotel Sheraton is due for a bigger and better berth soon . . . Ruby Foo's Den will be reopened for business, with the most modern construction in Boston's Chinatown, within ten days . . . A tentative date for the opening is a week from tomorrow night.

IT TOOK A LONG time for this column's prediction that Mildred Law, the Dorchester dancer-singer, would be signed for pictures to come true . . . Three companies were interested, and it seemed certain a year ago this month that the beautiful daughter of Police Capt. Tom McMurray, skipper of Station 7, would have been moved to Hollywood forthwith . . . But Columbia finally won Mildred—last month . . . (So far the Boston girl has had nothing to do).

* * *

BENNY DROHAN, the U.S.O. comic, enjoyed a two-day layoff in Boston after a tour of West Coast camps . . . Benjamin's biggest thrill on the tour was the knowledge that he was certain to meet at least one fellow-citizen of his native South Boston in every post he played . . . To find a South Bostonian in the audience, Benny would sing and play (which South Bostonians do not relish as a theme-song)—his song "Southie Is My Home Town" . . . "I could be sure always of at least one war whoop when I started the chorus with 'I was born down on A street,' and after the show, there would be the inevitable ex-resident of South Boston on hand to greet me," said Benjamin . . . Mr. Drohan has embarked on another tour of duty . . . He says he hopes to be home in time to direct the entertainment of School Committeeman Michael J. Ward's campaign rallies in the sheriff of Suffolk County primaries.

SHANGRI-LA'S new policy is to become the "Boston Stork Club," Tommy Maren insists . . . As a first maneuver in making the Shangri-la's food an outstanding feature, the famous pastry chef of Dinty Moore's (another Maren project) has been enlisted . . . Collector of Internal Revenue Denis W. Delaney gave this corner the first authentic interpretation of the Senate-passed bill for reduction to 20 per cent of the 30 per cent "cabaret tax." The bill carried a proviso which would exempt men-in-uniform (U. S. uniform) from payment of the tax.

THE BOSTON Collector explained that this exemption would apply to the service man (or woman) alone . . . If a soldier or sailor or marine, for instance, was stepping out with the girl-friend (or wife) he would have to pay the 20 per cent tax on his companion's check.

* * *

AND HERE'S A warning to smarties who have pitted their wits against the income tax: Six small plants in this internal revenue district have been given a very close scrutiny within the past week . . . It is delicate business, as the first cry from suspected offenders is that of "interference with the war effort" . . . But the doughty collector and his experts are moving cautiously and — you may depend on it — with some very good information . . . Individuals doing business on a "strictly cash basis," on the theory that checks leave a trail, are welcome to a small warning, too.

EXECUTIVE SEC. JOHN J. KEARNEY of the Bartenders' and Hotel Employes' Local 34 will receive a surprise tribute from his admiring and affectionate members at a "burning of the mortgage party" to be held Sunday night at the Hotel Statler . . . The Caeds have paid in full for their headquarters . . . Governor Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and labor big-wigs of the state, and D. B. Stanbro, vice-president of the City of Boston Hotel Assn, will be at the head-table . . . Johnny Rosenthal's "Spotlight" is doing marvellous business, and Harry Sher's Silver Dollar bar is another Boston oasis which the war has made a by-word—or two by-words . . . Service-men have made the Silver Dollar famous among themselves by naming it as the place to meet at the beginning of a night's liberty or furlough.

COMIC IMITATOR CONFESSES TO MURDER OF CHICKIE MARROW
In a full confession of his crime "Tatters" admitted his guilt at the Rivoli theatre this morning. "Tatters" revealed extreme jealousy of his wife's infatuation for the murdered man motivated his crime. Detective Sergeant Paul Simon of the Homicide squad was in full charge of the successful investigation.
Tatters, waiting until a few minutes before Marrow was due to appear on the stage, climbed into the dressing-room of the deceased man, and simulating the voice of Dr. Stephen Bobbs, medical adviser to Marrow, he leaped upon the victim, smothering him with a cloth saturated with chloroform.

Uncle Louie gave Aunt Gussie a permanent wave after she promised to stop takin' a swing at him.
How did Uncle Louie get that court plaster on his face?
'Aunt Gussie's got a terrible memory.

Parachute Troops In Italy Aid Patriots

NEW YORK (AP) — Allied parachutists have been dropped behind certain parts of the front in Italy to help Italian patriots, the free Italian radio station at Bari said.

The report added that "the patriots were told to act in agreement with the parachutists and to delay the German retreat as much as possible by cutting all available roads."

Bill Comes Back; Crown Lady Fan

By AUSTEN LAKE

Maybe this is digging up old bones from baseball's graveyard. But I have never quite acquitted the Braves for crass executive stupidity in letting Bill McKechnie leak away to Cincinnati in 1938. So here come the Reds, a short whoop and a holler out of first place, and there go the Braves sucking their accustomed goose eggs in the second division.

I don't insist that Bill could have lifted the bumbling Braves to any pennants in the last six years, but I have always preached that he is baseball's best brain when it comes to squeezing the most out of his pitching, however mediocre. So let's meditate on the National League's pitching record since '38. You will find that the total number of runs scored against the Reds, 3409, is exactly 190 less than the next highest team. And while the Bee-Braves were bogged down in seventh place between 1939 and '42, finishing sixth in '43, the Reds have finished 1, 1, 3, 4, 2. Nor were they a ready-made club when Bill took over, having finished in the coal hole the year before.

Bill McKechnie

So it was a sad day for Boston's civic pride, or whatever it is that our citizens are supposed to display toward their ball firms, when Bill was kissed away from Gaffney st. For since then Brau Wullie has skimmed fortune's cream. He owns oil wells, a meat-saw business, half of a rock-bearing mountain, Pittsburgh real estate and a $30,000 contract for a term of years. He is baseball's richest manager. And I trust that this will make the Braves so mad that they'll lick his Reds four straight.

Lady Loyalist

Red Sox Lady Rooter—When Mrs. Lolly Hopkins, the Sox female loyalist who sits shrieking soprano cheers through a megaphone during the Fenway games, was rewarded by the management with a free season pass, there should have been a G.H.Q. citation to go with it, like the U. S. Army command gives its heroic soldiery. Something like, "Above and beyond the requisites of enthusiasm, Mrs. Hopkins continued to root, exhort and stimulate the Sox even when there was nothing to root about. Amid the hairy blasphemy of the opposite sex she, by her example, brought sunshine to the otherwise dull, drab, monotony of the athletes."

This is not the first time that Boston has had a notable lady rooter. There was a female fan some years ago by the name of Mrs. Glayds Toye who had a flare for organization and who tried to band the lady-fans of Boston into some kind of politico-athletic society, or female chowder club, to practice cheers. But this organization failed because obviously there was nothing to cheer about between the months of September and April. And anyway the ladies preferred extemporaneous cheers like "Eeek" or "Whee' on the impulse of the moment instead of unison "Rah-rah-rahs." As yet I have not had the pleasure of listening to Mrs. Hopkins' style of rooting, but am informed that it is of the "Atta boy" and "Nice goin' kid" type usually associated with the masculine masses. She is a welcome addition.

Baseball mystery—Arky Vaughan, the Dodgers' cum laude shortstop, has barred himself up on his 1900-acre Potter Valley (Cal.) ranch, a victim of his own vagaries. Although in prime physical shape and reasonably young (32) he refuses to report to Brooklyn, thereby spurning a $12,000 salary. And although he is in no immediate risk of being drafted, being past 30 and father of four children, he refuses to query his draft board about his status. Nor will he advise Branch Rickey, general manager of the Dodgers, who has offered all kinds of concessions, including payment of his field hands salaries, a full and retroactive wage scale for the months missed on the ball field, etc., what kind of mouse is gnawing at his soul. Meanwhile the Dodgers need a shortstop worse than Hitler needs advice.

Yeah, They'll Run

Nazi reasoning — Example of Germany's method of elliptical reasoning comes in the recent Berlin radio announcement that horse racing will be resumed within the Reich — yeh, you guessed it, "improvement of breed." Sez the Nazi ether spouter, "Conditions of terrain and supplies impose limitations on the motorization of our armed forces and therefore maintenance of efficient horse breeding is of the greatest importance to the war effort." This has all the earmarks of a horse-gambler touting himself off the dobbin of his choice at Suffolk Downs.

Champion's handouts — Sergt. Joe Louis's mild grumble at the British trade-folk's habit of holding their hand out for every minor service, recalls the common complaint of all fistic champions and particularly that of Jack Sharkey when he held the terrestial bouble. "If I get off a train," said Jack, "A porter grabs my bag. I'm strong enough to carry that bag but I'd get the name of being a piker. And where another man might pay off with a quarter, I have to slip the red cap a bill. Dimes, quarters and halves are no use to me. If I handed a coin to a bell hop, he'd curl his lip and tell everybody in the lobby what a cheap skate I am. It's got to be dollars, dollars, dollars." It's also the high cost of being a popular figure.

McKechnie's Dashing Reds Battle Our Braves

By BILL GRIMES

After breaking even with the St. Louis Cardinals, league champions, the Braves open a three-day four-game series with Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati Reds this afternoon at Braves Field.

Mgr. Bob Coleman has nominated Jim "Knuckle Ball" Tobin to pitch the opening game. On his last appearance against the Reds, which was in Cincinnati, "Tobe" was on the wrong end of a no-hit-no-run game, in which Clyde Shoun came within a walk to the Boston butterfly hurler of pitching a perfect game. Chuck Aleno decided that game in favor of the Reds with a home run.

Mgr. McKechnie will start Ed Heusser, a refugee from the Phillies. The Reds have split series with Brooklyn and Philadelphia since they came East. And, they arrived here after losing two straight to the Phillies.

The Braves should have taken the odd game from the Cardinals. A couple of slips were costly. Connie Ryan unloaded a low throw, which Dee Phillips couldn't handle, on a double play ball in the 3d. That cost one run. Then, Al Javery was slow breaking after an infield hit in the 7th and George Fallon reached with two down. Before the third man had been retired, the Cardinals came up with two more runs.

KLOPP IS NO FLOP

For the second time in three days, Stan Flopp gave a fine account of himself as a relief pitcher. He was sent in the second game on the holiday, after Ira Hutchinson had been given a going over, and he stopped the Cards. Yesterday, he took over when Javery was relieved for a pinch hitter, and came through again.

Klopp had plenty of minor league experience before he was picked up by the Braves. He had been out of organized ball for three years. He was made a free agent during the off season and obtained a leave of absence from his job with the Philadelphia and Reading R. R. to try out with the Braves. Bob Coleman, who knew him in the Three Eye League, liked Klopp's work and signed him to a contract.

TRIBAL PICKUPS

All during the Cardinals' batting practice, Al Javery rode the St. Louis players from the Braves' bench . . . He really gave them a going over and at the same time he put himself in a tough spot . . . "Skippy" Roberge, the former Brave utility infielder, is overseas with the armed forces . . . He landed in England about two weeks ago . . . He wrote that he is trying to locate Eddie Kenney, former Boston College infielder, with whom he played at Fort Devens.

Harry MacPherson, North Andover, who has been a sensation for three years pitching for Johnson High School, reported to the Braves yesterday . . . Bob Quinn beat four major league clubs to MacPherson, who worked out with the Braves at Choate School.

The Braves will play an exhibition game at Fort Monmouth, Red Banks, N. J., against a U. S. Signal Corps outfit, next Monday . . . On June 23, they will exhibit at Camp Shanks, Orangeburg, N. Y., and the following Monday, they will play the Navy team at Camp Sampson.

Donald "Duck" Davidson has Jim "Knuckle-Ball" Tobin booked to speak before the Brighton High School graduating class today . . . "Slats" Marion is far out on front of all major league shortstops . . . The good old East wind, which came in just before the game started, robbed Ray Sanders of a home run in the 3d . . . The ball headed for the jury box but the East Wind came to Javery's rescue, blowing it back on the playing field right at the foul line.

With Javery pitching, the Cardinals elected not to do any "dusting off" . . . Many of the experts rate Augie Bergamo as a better all around ball player than Johnny Hopp . . . The rumors still have Morton Cooper going to the Cubs, for a hunk of cash . . . "Red" Munger turned back the first nine Braves . . . Then, after Connie Ryan had singled, Max Macon hit into a lightning fast double play, which was started by George Fallon, the best "D. P." second baseman in the league.

A better start on Fallon's topped swing by Javery would have taken the Braves out of the 7th inning before the Cards scored . . . Dee Phillips opened the 8th with a line drive at "Red" Munger . . . The ball hit the Cards' pitcher on the third finger of his throwing hand and forced his retirement . . . Freddie Schmidt took over the hurling assignment . . . Munger had pitched a grand game.

JIM SEEKS REVENGE — Last time out against the Reds, good old reliable Jim Tobin ran into no-hit-no-run opposition turned in by Clyde Shoun. Jim himself turned in a jim-dandy game that day but he was a bit off the perfect phase. Today Tobin opposes Ed Heusser, who has twirled for the Phils and Cards.

Striped Bass Get Cape Call

By DARK MONTREAL

This week-end should be one of the best for the striped bass anglers. A second run of school fish, a little larger than the first, is reported off the Cape and in large numbers. Pleasant Bay at Orleans is providing good fishing as are most of the inlets on the back shore.

There are good fish in the Weweantic and some excellent ones off the Cape Cod Canal along Mashpee, Hog Island and those waters. Sea worms, barracudas and tin squid all seem to be taking. Haven't yet heard that the plugs are productive. North River has stripers aplenty.

Buzzards Bay tautog are in abundance on the ledges and in good size running up to nine pounds. Scup are beginning to appear in schools and off the four buoys at the mouth of the Weweantic, small squetigue are taking. No sign yet of bonita, which may or may not be back, and no reports of blues off-shore. Big smelt are being taken off the Plymouth pier.

Al Tripp's reopening at Manomet Point has been a grand success. High line recently was a party of four, J. Mello, V. Bettencourt and H. Bullock of Warren, R. I., and J. Costa of Barrington, who boated 246 pounds of big cod. Several catches were close to it but these included large flounders.

Harvard, Tech Crews To Battle on Charles

Harvard and M. I. T. crews will be clashing tomorrow afternoon on the Charles river in a three-race regatta slated to get underway at 4 o'clock at the Tech boathouse.

The opening event will find the lightweight crews of the two schools battling it out to be followed by the Junior Varsity competition at 4:30. The Varsity oarsmen will battle it out for the supremacy of the river a half hour later.

Mat Champion Takes On Old Title Holder

Sandor Szabo, California, will be defending his world's heavyweight championship for the fifth time when he takes on Maurice "The Angel" Tillet, France, in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling program at the Arena next Wednesday night.

The Angel, a former titlist, qualified for this crack at the crown by his decisive victory over Leo Numa earlier this week.

Legalized Racing Cuts Income Taxes

By JACK CONWAY

WHILE DEFEATED by Jakajones over the five furlongs distance at Suffolk Downs, Mrs. Weston W. Adams' Flying Bridge, which won at Pimlico in the spring, showed plenty of run . . . Jakajones, son of Johnstown and Wound Up, came flying on the rail . . . Horace Wade watched every move made by Jakajones . . . He was eager to see how a Johnstown colt steps . . . Horace has given much attention to the care of Lasting Peace, Charley Martin's two-year-old, who also has Johnstown as a daddy.

Jockey Evo Delpino had a narrow escape from serious injury when the 60 to 1 Plucky Grip in the same race with Jakajones, jumped over the fence into the winner's circle while on the way to the post . . . Delpino was thrown and was kicked by the horse . . . It was announced that the jockey did not suffer any serious injury . . . He was out for a few minutes, but he recovered quickly, after he was removed from the track in the ambulance.

Horace Wade

There was $42,000 burned up on the odds on Count Did when he didn't do a thing other than finish third . . . Even the bridge jumpers, who bet big gobs of money for show, had mild cases of hysteria.

The dismal failure of Count Did caused old Jawn Public to move away from the odds on choice, Sophocles, in the fifth race . . . The latter then went on to score an easy victory with First of All second.

After numerous form upsets during the day, Dave Wilson's selection, A One, who ran as an entry with Misty Lady, enabled the noble breed of bettors to get even. That is if they had sufficient fresh spinach left by that time.

6 Million From Racing

IT IS EASY to see why the various states that have racing are so strong for legalized racing under the pari-mutuel system when one examines the recent figures released from Florida. The State of Florida received $6,824,262 from horse racing, dog racing and Jai Alai. This established a new record.

This was a decided increase for the state over the $4,392,861 it received from racing during the 1941-1942 season. The recent season saw $109,561,969 bet in Florida at legalized plants. It was a big pickup over the previous season when the betting dropped to $26,658,646 due to transportation and gas difficulties which made it necessary to cancel some of the racing meetings.

The boom that started in Florida has continued in New England. Gov. A. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island has been rather frank in stating that if it were not for the huge amount of revenue that the state gets from Narragansett Park that it would have to have a state income tax.

New Hampshire also finds it unnecessary to have a state income tax on earned incomes as a result of the revenue from racing. The Massachusets state income tax would undoubtedly be jacked up if it were not for the revenue received from horse and dog tracks.

The fact the various states cut in on the racing spoils so heavily at a time when money is needed for taxes is one of the best insurances racing has.

Javery Jinx on Job

AL JAVERY'S jinx was on the job once more at National League park when the Braves dropped the final game of their series to the Cards by a score of 4 to 2. This gave the Braves an even split for the series of four games.

The Tribe has shown flashes of good baseball even on those occasions when it has been defeated, and it will continue to make things interesting for the visiting ball clubs.

Armstrong, Joyce In Third Meeting

CHICAGO, June 2 (AP)—Henry Armstrong, erstwhile "perpetual motion" of the prize ring and one-time featherweight, lightweight and welterweight champion, was favored to achieve the 11th straight win of his comeback career tonight against Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind.

The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds at Chicago Stadium, marks the third meeting of the pair. Joyce, former Golden Gloves fighter, won a decision in the first match last year and Armstrong squared accounts in a return bout.

Four Tennis Stars Show in Bond Drive

Tight Race Feature In American League

By Associated Press

It's only five games from top to bottom of the American League scale today as the St. Louis Browns celebrate their latest feat of "losing" themselves into first place.

When the Brownies were slaughtered yesterday by Washington, 11-5, as the New York Yankees were squeezed out by Detroit, 4-3, in 16 innings, Luke Sewell's crew took over the lead by two slender percentage points. They have won four and lost three more than the champions.

Detroit's clean sweep of the Yankee series put them only one game and a half away with Philadelphia and Washington another length back.

Steve O'Neill repeated with Paul Trout and Hal Newhouser in relief roles to shade the New Yorkers, Lefty Hal getting credit for his eighth win and third over the Yanks. Don Ross' double off reliefer Atley Donald was the telling blow.

SIX HITS FOR SPENCE

Stan Spence slammed six hits in six at bat to tie the modern record that team mate George Myatt and 23 other gents hold as Washington routed four Brownie hurlers with 20 blows.

George Metkovich banged a three-run homer in the ninth to assure Boston a 7-6 victory over Cleveland. Boston scored four in the first, but the Tribe had railled for a two-run edge with two out in the last frame when Metkovich hit for all four.

Johnny Barrett was the whole show as Pittsburgh topped Brooklyn 2-1 for Rip Sewell's seventh triumph. Barrett's eighth-inning round tripper won the game and his catch of Luis Olmo's long drive in the ninth saved it. Babe Dahlgren also touched Curt Davis for a homer, although Davis gave but four hits.

BARRETT RED HOT

Kewpie Dick Barrett batted home four runs with a triple and double in getting credit for the Phils' win over the Reds.

Danny Gardella authored his fourth homer in the seventh frame of a night game to score behind pitcher Bill Voiselle with the big runs of the New York Giants' 5-3 edge over Chicago.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Polo Grounders who took fourth place on the day's results.

The Philadelphia-Chicago game in the American was postponed.

Good Old English Favored in Reggies

By MIKE GILLOOLY

"It's a lark," chirps Coach Bill Ohrenberger of Boston English High School and he's not referring to signs of spring in this New England hot-house. He's eyeing supremacy in the Boston schoolboy track and field ranks in the big outdoor event of the season, the annual Reggie Meet to be conducted tomorrow morning and afternoon at the Harvard Stadium.

This meeting of all the entries in the Joe McKenney schoolboy conference will be one of the features of the centenial celebration of the five day carnival of the Y. M. C. A.

Coach Ohrenberger isn't the type of fellow who'd give you a bad lead on his leg-artists. When he says that the Blue and Blue will have 29 boys chalking up points for his team, you can be assured that English will have that amount, give or take a couple either way. When he says that his team will win the Reggies with the same ease that the club captured the indoor crown, you can forget about first place and begin to concentrate on the runner-up.

In this riddle of points, English will again feel the loss of Court Ellis, the "Mr. Track" of Boston schoolboys, to the Merchant Marine. But with strength well scattered throughout all three classes it's quite possible that English will have point-scorers in every event on the program.

In the combined A-B class, English will have, on the word of Coach Ohrenberger, 14 contributors to the grand total of points.

Veterans' Race Attracts Eight

Class is written all over the third Veterans' Special tonight at Raynham Park with eight established routers racing over three-eighths of a mile in an event that should prove one of the outstanding of the greyhound season.

Nominated for the third race, these proven distance greyhounds figure to attract so large a gathering that General Manager Russ Murray will be able to give the Record-American fund for hospitalized war veterans in this area about $2500 tonight.

Murray is staging a Veterans' special every Friday night, hoping to raise $20,000 for this most worthy cause and in the past two months he has already cleared $9000.
